

Governor Alf M. Landon Is "Deeply Grati-fied" With His Campaigning

Republican Candidate for the Presidency Back in Topeka After 2,880 Mile Trip Through Eight States.

SECOND TRIP

Will Attend President Roosevelt's Drouth Conference and Tour Middlewestern Farm Belt.

By O. A. MARTIN

Associated Press Staff Writer.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 25 (AP)—Back home today, Governor Alf M. Landon expressed himself as "deeply gratified" by his first taste of presidential campaigning—a 2,880-mile stumping tour through eight states embracing three major speeches and more than 50 rear platform appearances.

The Republican nominee reached the Kansas capital city shortly after midnight, ending a swing to vote-important eastern states that started eight days ago in Colorado.

The standard-bearer is expected to announce soon plans for a second route, this time a trip through the middlewestern farm belt. Aides expected this swing late in September.

The governor turned his attention today to business accumulated during his absence and to rest before arranging to attend a drouth conference, the governor said that "after called by President Roosevelt."

Talking to a Sedalia, Mo., audience the governor said that "after being gone from Kansas for a week I have got to get back and earn my salary."

Discussing his first tour, which took him to West Middlesex, Pa., his birthplace, and to Chautauqua and Buffalo, N. Y., for three speeches, the candidate in a statement said:

Appreciates Welcome.

"I return to Topeka deeply gratified with my first trip of the 1936 campaign. Traveling the past eight days between the Rocky Mountains and Lake Erie, I have appreciated the friendly welcome of those whom I have had the opportunity of meeting, whether it be from the rear platform of the train, aboard the train, or at West Middlesex, Chautauqua and Buffalo."

In Illinois on the return trip, Landon halted at Springfield to pay a personal tribute to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

On his way through Missouri, he met party leaders, including Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet.

"There is a very strong sentiment for Governor Landon in Missouri," Hyde said. "But the question is whether it will get counted at the polls."

Before heading into his home state, Landon told a crowd inside the Union Station at Kansas City: "I wish I could tell the words to tell you how kind and neighborly all the folks have been all the way to my birth-place and back again. It only comes to show that an American is at home anywhere under the flag. And as long as that is true, we shall remain a united people."

The crush of the crowd, seeking an opportunity to shake hands, was so great that police were called to battle a path for the Kansas back to his special train. After the train reached Topeka Landon went directly to the executive mansion.

Landon "The American Way" Governor Landon's statement on his return also said:

"It has been interesting to find that the people of all of the nine states visited (the train cut through Indiana at night) are striving to solve in an honest and common-sense way their common problems. Our neighbors of Colorado and Nebraska are much the same in their thoughts and aspirations as the people of Pennsylvania and New York. And all are no different from the folks of Kansas."

"Everywhere, despite differences in geography, the people are undoubtedly interested in good government. The crowds that have gathered are proof of this interest."

"This is as it should be. It is the American way, for under the American system the people are the government. They are entitled to know the whole truth about the conduct of their public business. When they insist upon knowing, as they now do, they can be relied upon to arrive at sound conclusions."

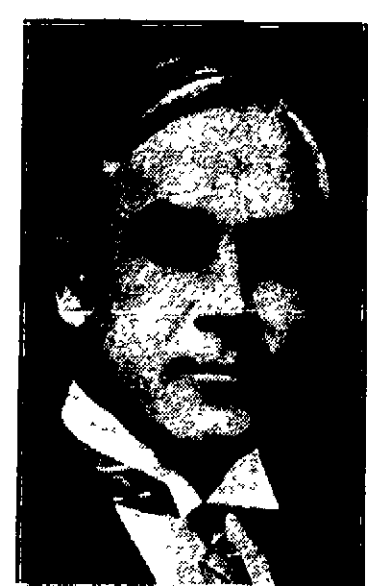

"The interest in government as particularly shown by the women and young people is most encouraging. It is a wholesome sign when the women and the young people join their men folk in an endeavor to shape the course of government. As long as the American people take a deep interest in their public affairs all will be well for their government."

Mr. Davis also announced that in addition to the long list of prominent Masons, recently published in The Freeman, other distinguished members of the order will attend the 113th annual assembly, among them Charles H. Johnson of New York city, grand conductor of the General Grand Council of the United States, also Donald J. Sargeant, past grand master of New Jersey Grand Council, William P. Frasier, grand master and H. B. Brown, grand principal conductor of Grand Council, Connecticut, and George F. Ward, grand master of Rhode Island Grand Council.

Mr. Gulick, has advised Mr. Davis that the Newburgh Kiwanis Club would like to join in paying tribute to the Rev. Mr. Gulick, who was a prominent Kiwanian and chairman of the inter-club relations committee.

La Guardia Talked Of as Dern Successor

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP)—Three veterans of the World War were mentioned prominently today in speculation over the probable successor to the late George H. Dern as Secretary of War.

They were Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippine Islands; Paul V. McNutt, Governor of Indiana, and Fiorello LaGuardia, Mayor of New York.

There was no official indication, however, as to whom President Roosevelt might have in mind for the cabinet post nor whether he would designate the new member of his official family before or after the November election.

Some expressed the belief that if Murphy was successful in his campaign as the Democratic candidate for Governor of Michigan he would be eliminated from consideration for the war portfolio. He now is on leave from the Philippines.

An attorney and former mayor of Detroit, Murphy served as a Captain of Infantry in the American overseas forces during the war.

Governor McNutt conferred only recently with President Roosevelt about the special train carrying the Chief Executive on an inspection trip of the drouth area. Like Murphy, the Indiana executive long has interested himself in national defense and served one term as National Commander of the American Legion.

Mayor LaGuardia, a Major in the United States army during the World War, was a Socialist representative in Congress from the 14th City, gold assets, $19,684,247,232.83.

Several weeks ago a number of the children residing in the Eleventh Ward of the city had written Mayor C. J. Heiselman asking that the mayor arrange to have a playground built in that section of the city for the children to play in.

As a result of that request Mr. and Mrs. William Lawton have deeded to the city without cost a plot of ground, fully as large as Forsyth Park just off the Boulevard and extending as far as South Wall street.

Mayor Heiselman said today that the city would prepare a project for submission to the WPA for having the grounds transformed into a playground and park.

One of the entrances to the proposed new park and playground would be from South Wall street, and there would also be several entrances from the Boulevard.

That a playground is needed in that section of the city is shown by the tragedy of a little five year old boy being killed when he ran out into the road several days ago.

Lawton Park as the new park will be known will make an ideal spot for a public park and playground, and it is planned to make it one of the finest parks in the city.

Kingston when all of the proposed parks are completed will have one of the finest systems of parks and playgrounds of any city in the state. One of the proposed new parks and playgrounds will be Clearwater Park in Wilbur, and another new park is the proposed park in the Third ward.

Loughran Park in the Second ward was recently opened to the public.

Other parks in the city are Forsyth Park, Hasbrouck Park, Block Park, Cornell Park and Barmann's Park which are now all in operation.

Fail to Identify Man Who Died in Railroad Accident

Efforts to identify the young man who was killed Wednesday evening by a freight train in the North yards here failed yesterday and today. Coroner DuBois and Sheriff Molyneux were continuing their efforts to get in touch with relatives and make positive identification of the victim. The young man apparently about twenty-five or thirty years old was instantly killed when he fell from a gondola car in which he had been train riding. His body was almost cut in two by the train.

Thursday efforts were made to locate relatives through addresses found upon the young man's person. One card which was used as an identification card by the R. H. Donnelly Corporation of 37 West 45th street, and which showed a picture of the man gave the name of Robert West of 244 East 40th street, New York. Inquiry there by New York police revealed no one there who knew the man. Another card contained the name of Roman Wujcinski and gave the same address.

The photograph on the Robert West card was compared with the man who was killed by several people and it was believed to be the same man although the photograph had been taken some time ago apparently. The victim had light hair, the photograph showed a man with hair parted in the center but the fact that the photograph indicated a high forehead led officials to believe the man later had changed his style of haircut due to loss of hair. Efforts to part the dead man's hair in the center indicated that it could easily be done and that he probably had once done so. This led officials to believe the photograph was that of the dead man and that it had been taken a few years ago. The general features are identical.

Thursday the Donnelly corporation was questioned as to Robert West and his connection with the company. At one time it was stated the man had been employed to distribute telephone books and the description given compared with the dead man closely. At present Robert West does not work for the company. At the time he sought work with the Donnelly corporation he gave his nearest relative Sophie West of 650 155th street, New York, care of New York. Efforts to get in touch with this party failed Thursday.

In the pocket of the dead man was also a TERA card bearing the name West. Receipts showed he had stopped at the Mills Hotel for the two previous nights before boarding the train and coming to Kingston.

Yesterday fingerprints were taken and submitted to the Bureau of Identification at Washington. It is believed the young man is Roman Wujcinski and that he may have changed his name to Robert West in an effort to shorten the name. He was well dressed and had $4.60 in his pocket and extra clothing in a laundry bag. Apparently in leaving the train on which he sought a ride from Newburgh he slipped and fell between the cars. Several cars passed over his body almost completely severing it at the waist. The remains are at the Coroner morgue.

Troopers and Sheriff Make Three Arrests on Call to Hickorybush

Everett Sampson, Abel Street Negro, in Jail for Entering Home of William Cassidy and Threatening Him with Revolver.

STILL FOUND

Herman Leusenring May Face Federal Charge; Cedar Street Negro Arrested.

William Cassidy of Hickorybush, town of Rosendale, had an experience which he will not quickly forget when on Thursday he received a visit from Everett Sampson, 36, negro of 157 Abel street, this city. Sampson, he told officers, entered the Cassidy home and threatened Mr. Cassidy with a gun. Sampson was ordered from the place but refused to go and when Cassidy insisted that the negro leave Sampson produced a gun and poked it into Cassidy's ribs and refused. Not to be frightened by the colored man's threats Cassidy insisted the man leave and finally Sampson did.

Sheriff Molyneux was notified of the incident by Mr. Cassidy at 3:05 o'clock Thursday afternoon and with Deputy Clayton Vredenburg and Troopers Reilly and Elliott went to Hickorybush in search of the colored man. Before they returned to Kingston they had arrested three persons. Sampson was arrested on a second degree assault charge for threatening Cassidy with a loaded gun. Herman Leusenring, 68, white, was arrested on a charge of maintaining a public nuisance and will also face a federal charge of possession of a still and Amelia Brown, negro, 36, Cedar street, was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

Herman Leusenring was arraigned before Justice Baxter of Rosendale on the nuisance charge and waived examination and was held to await action of the grand jury. The two negroes were brought to jail and their hearing was adjourned until 4:30 o'clock today before Justice Baxter.

When the officers started out to Hickorybush they had in mind the arrest of Sampson for displaying the gun at the Cassidy home. From what they learned it appears that Sampson had been at a place visiting friends during the afternoon. He left and started up the road toward the Leusenring place. Apparently he was somewhat befuddled and mistook the Cassidy place for that of Leusenring and when Mr. Cassidy ordered him out Sampson refused to go and produced a loaded gun and threatened the owner of the premises.

After Sampson had been ejected from the place by Cassidy the sheriff was notified. This was some time after the incident and when the sheriff and troopers arrived Sampson was not to be found. A woman who lives nearby however indicated the Leusenring place and told the officers Sampson might be found inside.

When the officers entered they found Sampson and Amelia Brown seated in the Leusenring place drinking and the suspicion of the officers was aroused. Inquiry brought forth the information that the drinks had been provided by Leusenring.

When the officers demanded that they be shown the liquor it is claimed that Leusenring produced a pint bottle of alleged liquor which did not have the customary revenue stamp on the bottle.

"Show us where you keep the still," demanded the sheriff and much to his surprise Leusenring led them to a garage in the rear of the house. There the officers found a small still and three barrels of mash and other equipment. Apparently Leusenring believed the officers knew of the existence of a still on the premises and without resistance took them to the building where the equipment was. The equipment will be turned over to federal agents.

Cassidy lodged the assault complaint against Sampson and said the negro had entered his home and refused to leave and when Cassidy insisted Sampson produced a gun and threatened him. At the time of his arrest the officers took a loaded revolver from Sampson which was kept by the sheriff for evidence.

A charge of disorderly conduct was lodged against Amelia Brown by the officers who learned from residents of the vicinity that habitual disturbances in the village were being created by her presence.

Harry Beck Modernizes Market To Take Care of Growing Business

Rebel Command Maps Plans for a New Siege of Madrid

By ROBERT B. PARKER, Jr.

(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Burgos, Spain, Aug. 25—The rebel high command mapped plans for restoration of the monarchy with military dictatorship today, announced a new bombardment of Madrid, and strengthened defenses against a surprise advance on this Fascist headquarters by Loyalists.

A military dictatorship will be constituted "indefinitely" to "exterminate" all Loyalist elements and rule the country "without any parliament whatsoever," high officials of the Fascist junta asserted.

Then, they said, will come a plebiscite to determine upon a restoration of the Bourbon dynasty. (Former King Alfonso, who quit the country in 1931, has been reported considering a flight back to Spain from Austria. His heir presumptive, Prince Juan of the Asturias, some weeks ago was believed to have conferred with rebel chieftains at Burgos, but advisers at that time said he was later escorted back across the French border.)

Close collaboration with Germany and Italy, "friendly nations" which Fascist leaders said have stood by the army in the present civil war, would be maintained, the rebel officials declared.

Alpines and hangars of the Fascist Spanish regime at Madrid were destroyed in the new bombardment yesterday, the Fascists said. In Madrid Loyalist officials said "little damage" was done by the bombing.

Two thousand militiamen of Madrid government comprised the surprise attackers moving on Burgos. They were reported near Briviesca, less than 25 miles away, and Gen. Emilio Mola, northern insurgent commander, moved his forces into position to withstand the onslaught.

Jablanitz, the Burgos government announced restoration of communication with the rest of the world. Officials here charged they had been cut off by France and England but had reestablished cable service by agreement with German communication agencies to accept messages from Vigo.

The Fascist junta sent a formal protest to the French Foreign office against "the inexcusable immorality of sacking the Bank of Spain." The protest demanded that France refuse to receive gold shipments from the Madrid government.

Madrid has shipped gold in large quantities to France since the revolt broke out, presumably intended for the purchase of arms and munitions. The French government could be prevailed upon to permit their sale.

The first step in setting up an army dictatorship if they are successful in capturing Madrid, the Fascists said, will be "eliminate" of all public enemies.

Extensive alterations, including a new front and other changes, are under way at the two-story brick building at 662 Broadway, purchased this spring by Harry Beck, proprietor of Beck's Market at 636 Broadway.

When the changes and improvements are completed the large store on the ground floor will be occupied by the Beck Market, which has enjoyed such a large increase in volume of business since it opened in its present location that larger quarters have become an imperative necessity. It will probably be around the first of November before all changes are completed and the store can move to the new location, which is one door east from Downs street on Broadway.

When completed the store will be one of the most attractive and up-to-date markets to be found in the city. The front will be of modern design, the interior will be renovated and redecorated, fixtures and equipment will be of the latest and an entirely new electric lighting and power system will be installed.

The store will give plenty of room to handle increased business, with ample width and extending back 75 feet. A most convenient feature will be the back entrance, with space at the rear of the building and an approach from Downs street, where trucks may load and unload.

All local labor is being employed, the general contract having been awarded to Peter C. Osterhout & Son, Weber and Walter are doing the plumbing; Carl Miller & Son the electrical work; Homer Emerick the tile work and the Kingston Glass Co. will install the new front.

Bicycle Rider Is Critically Injured

Arthur Smith, 15, of 150 Broadway, was critically injured about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the bicycle he was riding was in collision with an automobile driven by Kenneth Miller, 20, of 154 Henry street, at Wall street and Maiden lane. He was removed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Center ambulance where he is being treated for a skull fracture and other injuries. His condition today at noon was reported as slightly better.

From the report of the accident filed with the police department by Mr. Miller he was driving up Wall street and at the intersection of Maiden Lane the boy, riding a bicycle, ran into the right front fender of the car and was hurled from his wheel. Mr. Miller said he attempted to avoid the crash by swerving to the left.

Dr. Mark O'Meara, in front of whose house the accident occurred treated the boy before he was removed to the hospital.

The injured boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Smith. The father is pastor at St. Peter's Church.

Governor Barred Effort to Bring Into Hearing Name of Leo P. Byk, Described as Slot Machine Trafficker.

GEOGHAN ON STAND

Questioned Concerning Gus Drukman, Brother of the Slain Samuel, and Original Testimony.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—Governor Lehman admitted today District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan's removal hearing today testimony about bribe offers in the famous Drukman murder case.

"In fairness to Mr. Geoghan I think this material should be read," the governor said.

"I don't think it has anything to do with the charges against Mr. Geoghan, but there should be no mystery about it."

The governor also said he was convinced that no unusual delay in presenting the Drukman case to the grand jury had been established in the hearing.

The testimony which led to the governor's statement came from grand jury minutes.

It related how Carmine Anzalone, former state assembly clerk, tried to offer a $100 bribe to a grand juror last April. Anzalone later pleaded guilty to grand jury tampering.

An April grand jury last year failed to indict anyone for the murder of Samuel Drukman, an obscure clerk in the Brooklyn garage of the Luckman brothers, March 3, 1935.

A subsequent grand jury indicted Harry and Meyer Luckman and Fred J. Hull, and three went to prison for murder.

Anzalone's statement implicated Henry G. Singer, a former assistant U. S. attorney, who also was convicted of conspiracy to tamper with a grand jury.

At the first mention by Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd of Byk's name, Defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker leaped to his feet.

"I object to the question about Leo Byk at this time, because that matter is under another specification in the charges against Mr. Geoghan," he shouted.

"I sustain the objection," Governor Lehman said quietly, leaning back in his chair.

Geoghan was on the stand when the dramatic flareup occurred. Todd had just asked the question: "Did you hear about May 1 that Mr. Barsby (Assistant District Attorney Hyman Barsby) had received $2,000 from Leo P. Byk?"

Stryker was crouched and waiting, but his objection lagged just long enough for Geoghan to reply:

"No, I did not."

Stryker was obviously angry. "I think it is only fair," he said, "from the standpoint of Mr. Geoghan, inasmuch as this all goes to the press, to state, in view of that statement, that the fact is that there was a repayment of $2,000 by Byk to Barsby on or about that date, by check, and that that has all been covered in the extraordinary grand jury. Every document was there. No charge of any kind has been made against Mr. Barsby except that in the newspapers at about that time from some source that I do not know there was suggestion that it was a bribe."

The governor: "I sustained your objection. Proceed Mr. Todd."

"That is all I care to ask the district attorney on this specification," Todd said.

The special prosecutor had been taking a line of questioning intended to disclose whether Mr. Geoghan had become suspicious about the way the famous Drukman murder case had been handled before the April grand jury last year.

The governor called today's session to order by resuming procedure relating to delay in presentation of the Drukman case to the April grand jury of 1935.

Recess to Monday

Todd asked the governor whether a Saturday session would be held. Mr. Lehman said he did not intend to, but proposed to recess at 4 p. m. (E. S. T.) until 1 p. m. (E. S. T.) Monday.

Geoghan again took the stand and was questioned by Todd concerning the questioning of Gus Drukman on the night of March 3, 1935. Gus Drukman, a brother of the slain Samuel, later changed his testimony. It was brought out.

The district attorney said Gus Drukman was brought to his office on March 25 to try to strengthen him out on his conflicting testimony and get the evidence.

Geoghan, under questioning by Todd, said he could not recall the particular incident in which Gus Drukman altered his testimony.

Todd brought out that Gus Drukman had said his brother, the murdered Sam, left home on the night of the murder, ostensibly to meet Harry Luckman.

"Did you consider this important?"

Tientsin Reports
Of Chinese Bandits

Tientsin, Aug. 28 (AP).—Authorities were balked by a watery trail today in their investigation of the latest daring coup of sea brigands who have plundered the China seas for centuries.

The Pirates, employing a time-worn but effective ruse, impersonated passengers when they boarded the ferry steamer Lihb before it sailed yesterday from Tangku.

While the ship was on its way here across the Ba yot Chihli they held up and robbed 100 Chinese passengers, seized 32 of them as hostages and escaped to sea in a waiting junk.

Three passengers were slain and the brigands made off with all possessions of those aboard the steamer including their clothes.

Panic broke out among the victims, the ship's officers said, and the pirates threw two overboard and shot a third. The terrified passengers, officers said, were searched with great precision.

Pope Studies the Spanish Crisis

Castel Gandolfo, Italy, Aug. 28 (AP).—Pope Pius XI, weary and ill, mustered his waning energy today for a fresh study of the Spanish civil war crisis.

Prelates said the pontiff's anxiety over the turmoil in Spain had done much to nullify the beneficial effect of his summer sojourn in the Alban Hills.

Nevertheless, His Holiness arose soon after dawn, as is his custom, and a few hours later was in deep consultation with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal secretary of state, over latest Spanish developments.

Illness of the 73-year-old pontiff, famed as the "Pope of the Conciliation" after signing of the Lateran accord with Premier Benito Mussolini, was made known when preparations were going forward for an expository service for deaths of priests and nuns in the Spanish war. It was planned for the Pope to attend the services in St. Peter's Cathedral, in which all the cardinals resident in Rome would participate. Plans were made for His Holiness to receive Spanish churchmen who fled the dangers of Spain for safety in Italy.

The Pope's ailment was said to be endocarditis, inflammation of the heart. A medical examination in June, it was stated, resulted in "satisfactory conclusions" concerning his condition.

Every effort has been made in recent years to guard the Pope's strength. He gave up all exercises this year, even his daily walks. An occasional auto ride through the Vatican gardens became his chief outdoor relaxation.

SURROGATE'S COURT

The will of Jay E. Klock, late editor and publisher of the Kingston Daily Freeman, has been filed for probate with Surrogate George F. Kaufman. The will was executed August 14, 1931, and leaves his entire estate to members of his family making provision among other things for a former wife, Mrs. Ina G. C. Klock. There were no public bequests.

Oil's Not Right

Rochester, N. Y.—The four Mack brothers, dairy farmers in suburban Garland, have struck oil on their property—and they don't like it. They meant to get only water when they had a well drilled.

The Macks complain the oil is seeping into water, milk and almost everything on the farm. Their problem, they say, is how to stem the flow.

Costly Relief

Hartford, Ky.—The next time Foster Bennett seeks relief from the heat at night he probably won't sleep in his front yard.

He tried it. Now he has a fractured leg.

A driver lost control of a truck. It left the road, struck Bennett and smashed into a bedroom occupied by Mrs. Bennett. She was not injured.

For Musical Numbers

Oklahoma City—Wesley Shaw, up for sentencing for burglary and auto theft, said "I'd like to be sentenced to McAlester. You see, Judge, my brother is there and he plays a saxophone in the prison band. I'd like to play in the band with him."

Questioned, Shaw said he had another brother at the Granite Reformatory, also a bandman. Too, he had a younger, at the Pauls Valley Training School for boys and—yes, sir—he plays in the band.

Dangerously Low

Galveston, Tex.—In his parachute-jumping days, William C. Baker, 55, plunged thousands of feet time and again and never was injured. He was in a hospital today, his leg broken in two places. A four-foot fall did it.

Events Around

The Empire State

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The first meeting of the new State Traffic Commission will be held in Albany Tuesday, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Charles A. Harnett, the chairman, announced. The last legislature created the commission to standardize traffic signals and signal lights and to insure highway safety by proper markings at road intersections.

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Neil D. Cranmer, Elmira insurance agent, is named as a candidate for the nomination for governor on the prohibition ticket in petitions circulated here.

Other names on the petitions: Helen G. H. Estelle, Poughkeepsie, state officer of the W. C. T. U., for lieutenant-governor; Harry N. Van Antwerp, Watervliet, for comptroller; David Harshorn and Harold D. Watson, Brooklyn, for attorney general and associated judge Court of Appeals respectively; and Jane W. Clarke, Reynoldsville, and Z. Everett Kallum, North Chili, for congressman-at-large.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—The 1936-1937 oyster season, opening in September, will produce a harvest equaling or exceeding that of recent years, John L. Halpin, State Conservation Department secretary, said.

He added that commercial fishermen gather about a million and a half bushels of oysters each season in the Long Island area.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Refused one of his final requests—a drink of liquor—as against prison rules, Charles Rogas, 35, Brooklyn, went trembling to Sing Sing's electric chair last night for killing his three-year-old son, Alfred.

He was pronounced dead at 10:08 p. m. (EST).

Rogas allegedly poisoned his son and then killed his wife, Lillian, with a hammer. As she fell under the blows, police charged, she sprawled across their 10-month-old child, Winifred, smothering her to death.

Rogas was convicted only of killing his son.

DIVORCE DECREE CHALLENGED

Harold Payne, Cincinnati industrialist, challenged in New York courts the validity of a divorce won in Spain by his wife, Karina, who is shown with their seven-year-old daughter, Helen. Payne, who returned the child to this country on Aug. 20, said he refused to agree to the divorce unless his wife consented to give him control of their daughter. (Associated Press Photo)

Western Dairymen
Won't Interfere

(By The Associated Press)

The New York State Milk Producers planning a meeting at Poland, Sunday, at which they were promised "startling news" had the word of one midwestern state here today that none of its milk will be shipped here if New York farmers call a strike to obtain $3 milk.

Stanley Piseck, president of the New York State Milk Producers Federation, Inc., said yesterday the Poland meeting would develop "the most startling news dairymen in New York have ever had."

Piseck returned this week from a trip to the midwest designed, he said, to enlist the cooperation of dairymen in keeping milk off the New York market in the event of a strike.

Commissioner Joseph D. Beck of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets, said yesterday that Wisconsin farmers could not support a New York milk strike because they already are barred from shipping into the New York market.

"I understand that Piseck wants the Wisconsin farmers to keep their milk and cream out of New York," he said. "I don't know what he is making all the fuss about. We haven't shipped any milk or cream into New York for six years because our products are barred by New York laws."

Meanwhile N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., New York advertising firm, said that the Sheffield Farms Company, New York city milk distributor, had been petitioned by representatives of 16,000 dairymen to raise the milk price to farmers to cover a 50 per cent increase in production costs.

The advertising firm said that LeRoy A. Van Bommel, president of Sheffield, had promised "most serious consideration" of the request.

It quoted him as saying that "Sheffield has been carrying the farmers along on the half cent a quart increase granted by the commissioner of agriculture on the 16th of August. We know it cannot be done for long because we already are operating at a loss."

Felix Piseck, secretary of the Producers Federation, announced that he had received a telegram signed by Arthur Kellogg, whom he described as a director of the Consumers Union, Inc., a New York city organization, saying the group would be represented at the Poland meeting.

Piseck said the organization claims a membership of more than 10,000 consumers and favors a $3 per hundredweight milk price to producers.

All roads leading to and surrounding the British Empire Exposition, to open at Johannesburg, South Africa, September 15, will be lighted at night with the golden illumination from sodium highway luminaires furnished by General Electric.

Mrs. Klock, Miss
Klock Fill Offices

Mrs. Lucia de L. Klock, wife of the late Jay E. Klock, publisher of the Kingston Daily Freeman, succeeded him to the presidency of The Freeman Publishing Company yesterday, being elected at a special meeting by the board of directors. The elevation of Mrs. Klock to the presidency left a vice-president's post vacant, which was filled by the election of Miss Lillian I. Klock, on recommendation of the board membership. The directorate left vacant by Mr. Klock's death was filled by Harry duBois Frey, who was also elected general manager of the company.

Robert K. Hancock remains as one of the vice-presidents and managing editor, and Stanworth C. Hancock continues as secretary of the company. Mr. Frey retains his position as company treasurer. All members of the board were present at the special session.

New Paltz G. L. F.
Reports Progress

The annual meeting of the New Paltz Cooperative G. L. F. Service, Inc., was held in Highland Grange Hall Wednesday night. Checks totaling $875.45 were distributed to 234 farmers. The money was part of a $250,000.00 patronage dividend paid by Cooperative G. L. F. Mills, Inc., on purchases of farm supplies since January 1. Henry Mertz and Mr. Kisor were elected to the advisory committee for the local store for a term of three years. Other members of the committee are: Fred DuBois, Timothy Sullivan, J. E. Dodd and Frank Elliott.

N. G. Budd, in charge of G. L. F. Stores in this area, discussed the operations of the local store and complimented the community and Myron Vandemark, the local store manager, on their excellent showing. Jack Crisler told how the G. L. F. has built such an efficient organization in the past fifteen years. Fred DuBois, chairman of the local advisory committee, was chairman of the meeting and Myron Vandemark acted as secretary. The Highland Merry Makers furnished entertainment.

Prizes were given at the close of the meeting to the following: Mr. Theodore Lasher received one gallon G. L. F. asbestos roof cement for the woman taking care of the most poultry. Fred DuBois received two gallons G. L. F. motor oil for the farmer using the greatest number of gas driven engines. Joseph Sprague received one quart of G. L. F. implement paint for the man who has been farming the longest. Mr. Theodore Lasher received one pint of G. L. F. my kitchen spray for being the most recent wedded pair. After the program ice cream and cake were served.

Chance to Remove Conflict Causes

Tokyo, Aug. 28 (AP)—A peace conference, such as that the New York Times asserted President Roosevelt was considering in the event of his reelection, would be an opportunity for Japan to suggest redistribution of the sources of raw materials in world colonies, the Domei (Japanese) News Agency asserted today.

In a digest of anonymous foreign office opinion, the news agency asserted such a redistribution would be a means of removing dangerous causes of conflict.

Japan gladly would join in such a conference of representatives of world powers, Domei quoted its unidentified source as saying.

Here in some worth-while advice to motorists: As soon as darkness descends, slow down pronto! In spite of the fact that the bulk of cars are operated entirely during the day, well over half of all the fatal accidents last year occurred at night. Sixty-nine per cent of the victims were pedestrians. And the death rate for the evening rush hours was over 100 per cent greater in winter than in summer, due to darkness.

Truck Overturns at Highland Thursday

A large General Motors Trucking Company truck which was proceeding north Thursday and was forced off the road about two miles north of Highland when the driver, Walter Birgels of Pompton Lakes, N. J., attempted to avoid striking a car, still remained in the ditch overturned last night. The driver was awaiting the arrival of a wrecker from Newark.

The accident happened early Thursday morning when a car became stalled on Goldman's hill and began to back down. The car was proceeding south. In an effort to avoid the car the driver of the big truck loaded with tar paper swerved to the right of the road and went over the embankment and the huge truck overturned. Neither Birgels nor his helper were injured. The matter was reported to Sergeant Lockhart who investigated. The scene of the accident is just south of the Esopus-Lloyd town line on the two strip concrete.

Thursday night the overturned truck attracted a large number of spectators attracted to the scene by the burning of a line of flares set to warn traffic.

We didn't know how insignificant we had become until we tried to think how long it had been since someone asked us for our photograph.

ALBERTA DOLLARS

That new dollar issued by the Canadian provincial government of Alberta is, as you might say, an Alberta peach of a scheme. Dollar bills of a special brand are issued with no security except faith, hope and charity. The basic idea seems quite a bit like that of the Townsend plan—producing prosperity and giving paper money value by making it circulate fast. The owner of this dollar, if he holds it more than two weeks, must put a one-cent stamp on it before passing it along. Acceleration alone might create confidence in such money—a dollar moving fast always looks good. Every hold-up would mean a fine, adding value cent by cent. When the dollar bill has accumulated $1.04 of stamps, it will be redeemed by the provincial government with a good dollar. That is, with the best dollar Alberta has; it possesses no gold reserves.

The only real value the dollar can have, observes an American onlooker, is "the expectation that some day it will have collected enough taxes to pay for it." So far, the people who elected that government on a funny-money platform seem strangely disinclined to take a chance on it. The whole scheme may be like a locomotive "on dead center," merely requiring a push to start it. But who knows? Money, anyhow, is a mystery. Does anybody really understand it? And is there any infallible security for it? We have many billions of gold to buttress our currency; but what if other nations all went permanently off gold?

AIR FOR ARCHEOLOGISTS

It is reported by the Literary Digest that in 1926 Lindbergh suggested to an archeologist that airplanes might be useful in discovering ruins in terrain difficult to negotiate on foot or burro back. The archeologist threw away the letter. It looked to him, doubtless, like very silly advertising. But two years later, after the transoceanic flight, Lindbergh was blazing a trail for always over Central America. He saw ruins not yet known to modern students. Thorough as usual, he asked the Smithsonian Institution where he could inform himself about archeology. He was referred to The Carnegie Institution. There his first question was "What is the Use of Archeology?" When he found that it learned about ancient cultures, how man of older days "Learned to lay aside his instincts and pool his knowledge for the common use" he was interested.

When he found that archeology also had a practical side, showing the effects of cycles of soil erosion and climate changes on human society, how the ancient farmers learned to meet dust storms and drought and live on semiarid land without destroying it, he wanted to go ahead and use the air to increase the power of the archeologists. Since then aviators have discovered ruins not only in Central America but in our own southwest. Supplies are taken into the jungle by air and relics taken out. So the newest science is used for the oldest study. An eighteenth century poet made the appropriate comment: "The proper study of mankind is man."

HOME FOR ENILES

It was inevitable that young people so characteristically American as Charles and Anne Lindbergh should not be contented long with life abroad. Friends in Europe say they want to return home, and hope to do so within six months. The condition under which they, with emphasis on the colonel, would return, is freedom from the over-sensitization and disagreeable publicity which drove them away. It is assumed that they will continue in exile until this condition is met.

It may be that the well-meaning but persecuting Americans responsible for their flight have learned the lesson. Perhaps such celebrities can now be allowed to live and go about their affairs in their own country as quietly and privately as celebrities usually do in older countries. Intelligent and sympathetic Americans hope so. We need both of these fine, highly gifted young people in American life.

GOLF FENCES

An eastern suburban community, distressed by a local golf problem, proposes a rational solution. Country club golfers have been sending bum shots through the windows of homes near the golf course. Many of the neighbors, not being addicted to the sport themselves, resent this and refuse to take a rational view of the matter. So the club proposes to build a "duffer fence" thirty feet high, to keep the balls within bounds. The unsympathetic neighbors object to that, too, insisting that they don't want any "billboards" adjoining their property. Funny neither side has thought of the wire-fencing used for tennis courts. The country club might start a subtle campaign to interest those neighbors in golf. Give them a golf stick, for instance, every time a ball went through a window.

UNLAWFUL KISSING

Norman Horowitz, aged 30, of New York city, has been fined $15.40 for kissing his wife. It happened in Westport, Conn. And it isn't a result of those old Connecticut blue laws on Sunday observance that you've read about, either. It's something quite modern. The couple were motoring through the town. Horowitz, for some reason or other that doesn't appear in the published record, took occasion to bend over and kiss his wife, and this momentary irregularity resulted in the car swerving off of line, narrowly escaping a serious collision. This should be a lesson to many another young fellow, married or single. The place for occlusion is not behind a steering wheel.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barkin, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

DRINK PLENTY OF WATER

You may wonder why your doctor suggests that you drink three or four glasses of water every day if you are of normal weight and to drink half this amount or less if you are overweight.

As mentioned before every little cell in the body is really a little fish, and actually needs water in which to live. "A healthy individual retains his water balance by satisfying his normal hunger and thirst. A sick man cannot always do this and water must be given him."

Dr. Frederick A. Collier, Ann Arbor, Michigan, tells us in Clinical Medicine and Surgery that the usual amount taken into the body in food or liquid is about three pints daily. It is thrown out of the body by the kidneys as urine, by the lungs, by the skin, and in the stools.

A surgical operation can take 2 pints of water out of the system 70 per cent of which is given off by the skin—perspiration. "Ordinary comfortable bed clothing (not too much) saves the patient nearly a pint of water; the kidneys get rid of what is not given off by the skin and lungs."

"Where the thyroid gland is overactive—making all the organs do their work much faster—the water loss by perspiration may be as much as 2 quarts in the 24 hours. Vomiting and diarrhea also remove astonishing quantities of water from the body."

"A healthy man deprived of water for four days will lose 6 per cent of his body weight—a man weighing 150 pounds would thus lose 9 pounds if deprived of water for four days. The weight of the urine instead of being 1020 (normal) would be as high as 1042, and the urine would show traces of albumen and other evidences of acute inflammation." Football players, professional wrestlers and boxers may lose as much as 10 to 12 pounds of weight during a game or bout about three fourths of which (7 to 9 pounds) is water.

The point is that except in those who are overweight, if water is lost to the system by a fast thyroid gland, by vomiting, diarrhea, the taking of purgatives such as Epsom salts, or by strenuous exercise, it should be replaced as soon as possible. Every cell needs water and the kidneys must have sufficient to enable them to rid the system of poisonous wastes.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

SYNOPSIS: Carol's summer, spent working in Blake Thornton's advertising agency has taught her two things. One is that if it were not for Blake's aloof and selfish wife, she might become much interested in her employer. The other is that she is becoming popular with Atlanta's "best young people." Even Porter Murray, who has been Atlanta's worst bachelor catch for a good many years, and Carol's company delightful, Porter is dropping Carol home from a most expensive dinner; he has stopped in front of her apartment.

Chapter 11

BRIDESMAID

"YOU wouldn't tell me we were out of gas?" Carol asked.

"I would if I could get by with it." Porter put an arm around her and drew her towards him; put his free hand under her chin. "I've been wanting to do this for two months."

Her first impulse was to refuse him. She hadn't kissed a man since Denis, almost a year ago, but she had wanted a great many times to be kissed. Not by anyone she knew; merely an unfocused desire to feel a man's arms holding her, and a man's mouth on hers.

She supposed every girl felt that, but she resented the hunger nevertheless. Kisses were not significant any more—she was modern enough to feel that—but none of the men who had attempted it had appealed eyes were grave again. "The break will do you good."

Oh, stop it! she wanted to scream. Be a regular employer, so I can remember that that's all you are. Stop considering me—being so damned human.

No woman is proof against that, week in and week out. She stood up quickly, and Blake rose and stood looking at her with sober, searching eyes.

"If you want to go a day earlier," he said carefully, "that will be quite all right."

"Oh, but I don't, thanks..." She turned and fled to the impersonal haven of her desk.

SHE wrote Ellen that night, and managed to be convincingly enthusiastic. At her lunch hour the next day she went to the big store and sought out Mrs. House. Cornelia, drifting by, spied her.

"Hullo! What're you looking for?" She suppressed a smile. "A period dress in orchid taffeta," she said seriously.

Cornelia stared at her. "For cat's sake, why?"

"Oh, I just thought I'd like one. I need a new dress..."

Cornelia's face was a study. Salesmanship fought a ludicrous battle with honesty. "Oh," she said blankly, and Carol burst into laughter.

"Hullo," said Cornelia, "what're you looking for?"

to her. And so she had put them off with a casual laugh.

But tonight the hunger was keener, and so she let him kiss her. When his lips touched hers she stiffened. "Not like that, please."

"Sorry," he said huskily, and tried again. This time the kiss was light and slow and expert. "Is that better?"

"Much." The hunger was satisfied for the moment, so she said quietly: "Let's go home now."

He hesitated as if in protest, and then acquiesced. "Okay." He drove to the entrance and got out to open her door. "Is it too late for me to come up for a while?"

"I'm afraid it is. Don't forget I'm one of the toilers of the world."

"I won't. Well—goodnight. I'll call you tomorrow or next day."

She said: "Please do," and left him.

EARLY in October there was an ecstatic letter from Ellen. She was to be married on the last Saturday in October, and she was counting on Carol for maid of honor; she had selected Saturday because Carol would be better able to get away from the office then.

She put the letter aside and smiled ruefully. Ellen, bless her, was running true to her own enviable type. Ellen would insist upon—and reveal in—every one of the traditional, faintly ludicrous gestures. And a period dress, to be bought, of course, from Carol's own salary! But she would have to go, unless Blake couldn't spare her; that was a ray of hope.

She spoke to him about it the next morning, still smiling ruefully.

"If you think I oughtn't to take the time, I hope you'll say so. It won't—break me up."

He chuckled and she knew he understood—all the things she hadn't said.

"Of course you can take the time; it won't mean but a day and a half from the office. If you want an out I'm willing to be Siroca Legree and put my foot down, but actually it's up to you."

She wrinkled her nose. "Oh, heck. I guess I'd better go; I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world."

"I think you'd better go too." His

TALKS TO PARENTS

Let Him Cry

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"I simply can't bear to listen to the baby cry. It gets on my nerves so that I could scream myself."

The result of Mrs. Brown's over-sensitiveness and lack of self-control was that she had to put up with a crying child most of the time. For, once a child learns that he can get his own way if he cries loud and long enough, he cries for everything, and is apt to carry the habit over into later life, only changing the noisy expression of babyhood into moody sulks or raging tempers.

A certain amount of crying is good for a child. It stretches his lungs, stirs up his circulation, and since it is generally accompanied by waving arms and legs, ends by exercising the whole body. It is good for a baby to put half an hour a day into lusty yelling, and the mother who is too tender-hearted to listen to the noise had better put cotton in her ears and train her mind to think of something else.

The baby who cries for attention should certainly not be picked up and played with. He is already showing signs of being spoiled, and the sooner his bad habits are broken, the better for all concerned.

If he is well fed and comfortable, he should be able to lie in his crib quite happily for the short time he is awake. If he chooses to cry, let him cry himself to sleep.

All that is needed from the mother is self-control.

She is not showing real love or kindness when she takes the baby up every time he whimpers. She is merely being self-indulgent and actually harming the child.

Some day he must learn that he cannot have whatever he cries for, and, tiny though he seems, he can learn much of the lesson before he walks and talks.

LABOR CONVENTION OVER.
20 TEXTILE RESOLUTIONS DIE

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP).—New York state labor leaders turned homeward today after successfully sidestepping the craft vs. industrial union issue at the closing session of the State Federation of Labor convention.

The controversy was evaded through a compromise "hands-off" resolution. Its adoption followed an appeal by George Means, of New York city, re-elected federation president, for an end to bickering.

A demand that the state body condemn the parent American Federation of Labor for ouster of the industrial union faction was led by clothing and textile workers from the New York city area. They presented 20 resolutions on the subject. All died in the resolutions committee which substituted one declaring the issue is one for the federal organization to handle.

All officers were re-elected.

Copies Sentenced
New York, Aug. 27 (Special).—Vincent Caputo, who was indicted March 16 for the possession of a 1,000-gallon still on the J. F. Hoffman Farm, Pine Grove Road, Saratoga, pleaded guilty today before Judge Samuel Mandelbaum in United States District Court here. He was sentenced to four months in the Federal House of Detention and fined $500. The fine was remitted.

A Washington Day Book

BY FRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The maneuvers of Secretary Ickes of the interior and Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, over relief works are only a sample of the endless competition among federal departments for power and pelf in the way of authority and appropriations.

Victories have come to both sides in the Hopkins-Ickes affair, but Hopkins seems at present to have the advantage.

Ickes has not been concentrating all his fight on one front. He took up the 20-year-old struggle of the interior department to wrest control of the forest service from the department of agriculture and battled for it all through the last session of congress. He lost, but a bill passed the senate changing the name of the department to the department of conservation.

Interior Vs. Agriculture

THERE a backfire was started on behalf of the department of agriculture. The Brown-Kieberg bill was introduced proposing to transfer from interior to agriculture the control of the public domain (grazing land) and all functions of the reclamation department except the strictly engineering phases of building dams and diversion works. The bill provided, moreover, such works could be undertaken only when the department of agriculture approved.

There the whole thing stopped as far as last session was concerned. The Ickes conservation bill failing to pass the house.

Scouting possibilities that Ickes' difficulties in the relief field might be reflected in other ways, underofficials of the department of agriculture have been conducting a quiet drive for congressional and public support of the Brown-Kieberg bill. It already is endorsed by major farm organizations.

Reclamation Vs. Crop Control

THE argument for it is the same as was advanced in the backfire against Ickes, that it was sensible to place conservation of "organic" resources under agriculture. Organic resources are defined as forests, crops, timber and grass. Conservation of oil and minerals would be left in interior.

One additional factor leading to the renewed efforts of the agriculture people is the death of Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, who for years opposed moves to put his bureau under agriculture.

An argument they advance is that the department of agriculture stands itself on one hand trying to curb surpluses while the department of the interior, through the bureau of reclamation, is trying to put more land under cultivation.

That argument has been used by Republicans during the campaign, but in the west reclamation projects are wanted regardless of what happens to crop control.

The Growing Pearl

The shape of a growing pearl is determined by its location in the anatomy. If in contact with the shell, it will become attached. If muscular or organic movements exert pressure upon it, the layers of soft secretion will be shaped accordingly. Such movements may cause the pearl to assume the shape of an egg, barrel, or screw. Various forms occur because the movements turn the growing pearl somewhat as if it were in a lathe—the principal difference being that the pearl increases in size with each successive layer secreted around it.

Sundown Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Oh, cheep, cheep, cheep, cheep," she cried.

"You poor little chicken," quacked Mrs. Quacko, as she picked him up and put him back on Mr. Quacko's shoulder. "You weren't hurt, were you? Oh, no, fortunately you fell where the grass is long and the ground soft. It frightened you for a bit, didn't it? Mr. Quacko, you'd better go more slowly."

The chicken was soothed by the tone of Mrs. Quacko's voice. They could not mean to hurt him. It was impossible. He had never really known ducks, had never liked the little he knew of them, but these ducks were really being kind.

"I'm not hurt much," he gasped. "We'll be home in a very few minutes," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

But as they drew near the pond, all the chicken saw was the dark water and the sky growing dim; black.

Oh, for his mother's wing where he could run at such a time. Oh, to shut out the dark night which he did not understand at all. Oh, how his feet hurt and he was not sure whether the tumble had bruised him or not.

"What's that I feel, tears?" quacked Mr. Quacko softly, as he felt some light, light drops on his feathers.

Tomorrow—"The Chicken's Story."

The Making of the New York Times

The "body" and "soul" of the New York Times was bared Thursday to members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Club Hotel, when J. W. Duffield of the Times staff spoke to the membership on "The Making of a Great Newspaper."

Aside from the mass of interesting data concerning the amount of paper, ink, machinery and man power involved in putting together each edition of the New York Times, Mr. Duffield presented the picture, "behind the scenes," showing how the editorial policy was formulated, how advertising was accepted or rejected on a merit basis and how the policy of the Times affected each and every action and purpose of publication.

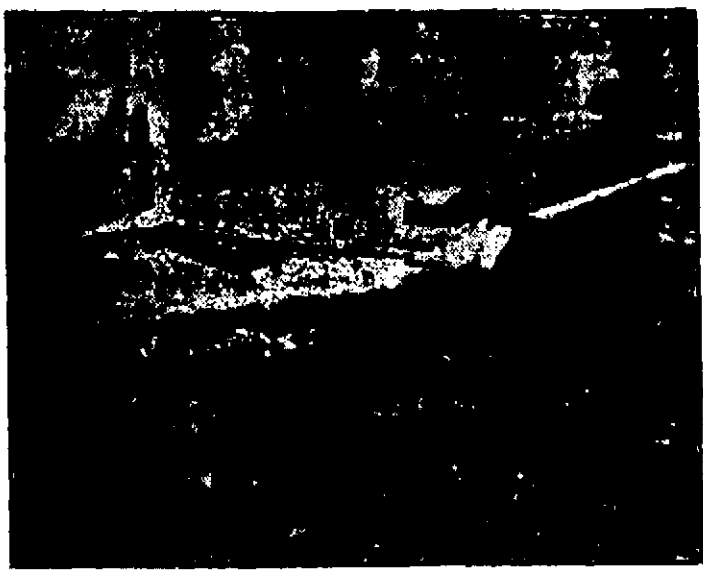

To print the New York Times, explained Mr. Duffield, 1,600 miles of paper four times the width of the published sheet each day and 25,000 miles "enough to go around the world" of single width paper is used for each issue. During the course of a year about 2,000,000 tons of ink is necessary to print the pages. With a vast amount of newspaper machinery of the latest type, some 3,500 men and women are employed to put out the paper daily and Sunday.

The speaker continued saying that the following news sources were used by the publication: Associated Press, stretching to all parts of the globe; Standard News Bureau, covering parts of New York city and New Jersey; City News Association, covering New York city; special local reporters, stationed at important points throughout the city; 92 specially trained correspondents abroad, with facilities to handle the news promptly over the Times own wireless station; a group of young men ready to go to any point of the world on a moment's notice, "trained" for special writing; and a multitude of correspondents in hamlets, towns, villages and cities where they watch happenings for the Times and serve on call.

Concerning the editorial policy, Mr. Duffield outlined the plan under the direction of an editorial board which meets each noon and takes the leading items for that day's edition, considers them from every angle and then assigns them to specially trained editorial writers for treatment. "The board is composed," said Mr. Duffield, "of men of great knowledge and capabilities in every line of endeavor."

Mention was made of a news pic-

Tobacco Heiress to Sell Beach Property

Honolulu, Aug. 28 (AP).—If she can't have a swimming pool in the surf at Kaalawai, wealthy Doris Duke Cromwell won't build a home overlooking the famous beach outside Honolulu.

She radiophoned William Cross, Jr., her Honolulu representative, to sell her Kaalawai property on which the board of harbor commissioners refused to grant her permission to build a private pool.

"I don't want to create hard feelings," Cross quoted her as saying, "but I felt my swimming pool request was a reasonable one and if the harbor board chooses to decline there is nothing for me to do but sell."

Harbor commissioners said granting her request would be "class legislation." They pointed out it would give the tobacco heiress a monopoly on part of the shore, shutting the public out from lands "which are a public trust."

Mrs. Cromwell had contemplated building a $500,000 beach house on the property, for which she paid $100,000.

Stage Set for Republican Rally

Stone Ridge, Aug. 28—All is in readiness here for the Republican rally scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at which time a crowd estimated to total about 800 will start coming to hear Ruth Dexter and John Calvin Brown, two guest speakers, and to view several Republican county nominees who will join the speakers' platform for the oratorical part of the program which begins at 3:30.

A baseball diamond has been staked out, and two ping pong tables set up, while one section of the lawn on the Leggett estate has been marked off forming two bowling alleys. There are a dozen card tables and nearly every available chair has been imported to seat the expected crowd.

Today the first contingent of cakes have started coming in, as well as a score of watermelons which have been placed on ice to insure the proper chill. The cooling beverages of iced tea and lemonade will be brought up tomorrow morning. Croquet games have been placed on the lawn near the center of activities.

Hundreds of Landon buttons are awaiting distribution and the Landon plates for automobiles have arrived, and a special force will spend tomorrow afternoon putting them on cars.

A small tent has been erected for the fortune teller.

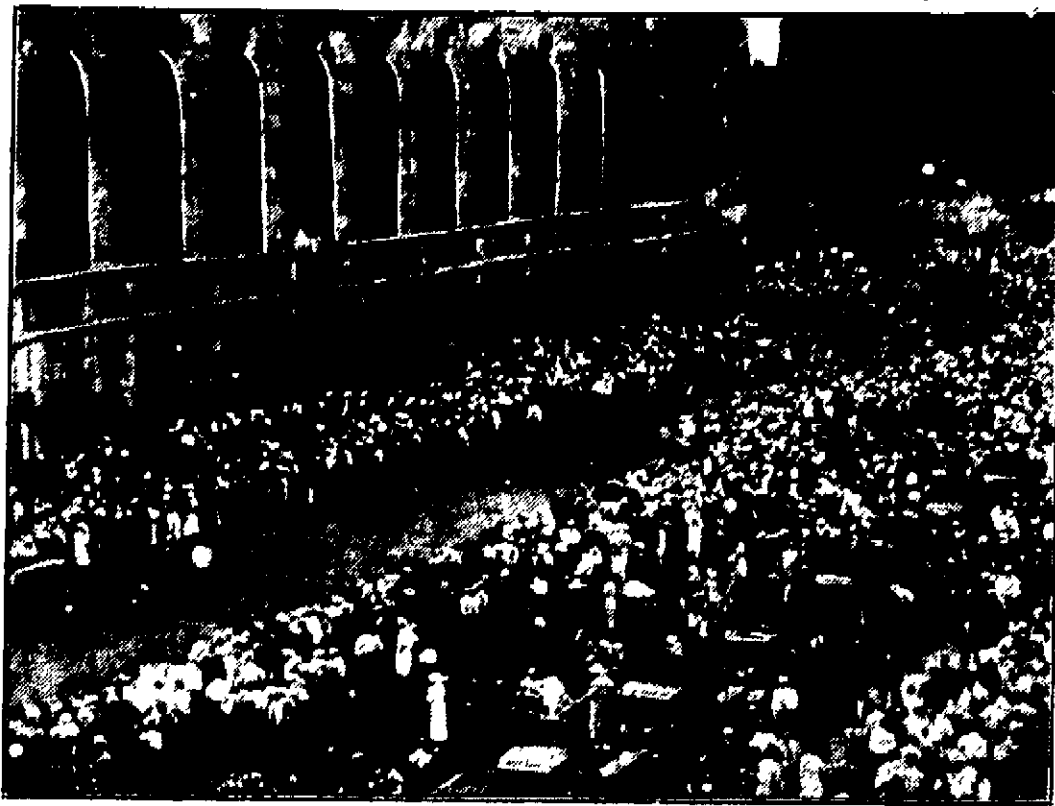

In the event of rain the committee is fully prepared to hold the rally indoors, and while quarters would naturally be cramped there is no reason why most of the activities should be curbed.

People from Ellenville, Highland, Saugerties and other points have indicated their presence tomorrow as well as hundreds within the local community, including a large delegation from Kingston. Mayor and Mrs. C. J. Heiselman are among those expected.

Legion Plans for Syracuse Trip

Final arrangements for the trip of the Kingston Post American Legion Drum Corps to the state convention at Syracuse have been completed. The corps will leave the Legion building by bus at 6 p. m. Wednesday, September 2.

50,000 PERSONS JAM STREETS FOR OLSON RITES

Denied admission to the packed municipal auditorium in Minneapolis, Minn., where funeral services were conducted for Gov. Floyd B. day, September 2. Returning they will leave Syracuse Friday night, September 4. While in Syracuse the corps will be quartered at the Hotel Empire. Anyone desiring to make the trip with the corps can make reservations by calling the Legion, 1914. This is the ninth state convention that the corps has attended. Although not taking part in the competition in late years they are still one of the highlights of the annual parade. The Doodledorfer band, composed of members of the corps, have been the hit of the past two conventions held at Buffalo and Rochester.

Kingston Caterer at Fair
At the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck next Tuesday to Friday inclusive, the lunch booth will be in charge of Mrs. Georgiana Brown of this city, who prepares all of the delicious suppers, etc., at the Kingston Y. W. C. A. and for many homes in this city.

Roman Wujcinski's Relatives Arrive

Relatives of Roman Wujcinski of New York city, who was killed by a freight train in the North Yard Wednesday evening when apparently he slipped while alighting from a moving freight train, arrived in Kingston today and after conferring with Sheriff Molyneux and his staff left for New Paltz to identify the body at the morgue of Coroner Lester DuBois, where the body was taken this morning from the W. N. C. C. Funeral Home where it had been held pending arrival of relatives.

Otto Knochenhauer of 25 East 177th street, Bronx, a brother-in-law, and a sister, Josephine Bagbanski, of 125 Baldwin street, Bloomfield, N. J., called at the morgue of Coroner DuBois this afternoon where they identified the body as that of Roman Wujcinski and made arrangements for interment in the Catholic cemetery at Ireland Corners.

Relatives said that Wujcinski also went under the name of Robert West in order to shorten his name. He had lived at 244 East 40th street, New York city, the address found upon the body, and had left New York city in search of work. He stayed at the Mills Hotel No. 2, in New York city for two nights and on Wednesday left Weehawken for upstate.

MAN JUMPS 40 STORIES FROM EMPIRE STATE BUILDING

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—An unidentified man jumped 44 stories to his death from an observation platform of the world's tallest building, the Empire State, today.

He waved goodbye to half a dozen paralyzed onlookers.

"So long folks," he said. He leaped outward from the projecting parapet, cleared three setbacks and hurtled to the sidewalk on the 32nd street side of the structure.

Rebels Map Plans For a New Siege

lic offices and immediate trial of all Loyalist government leaders.

The Loyalist press will be suppressed, they asserted, and then will come the plebiscite on the monarchy.

Other steps in the program of General Mola and Commander-in-Chief Francisco Franco included:

Suppression of the right to strike and "lockouts" by employers.

Political Council
Creation of a political council to act as adviser to the military dictatorship.

Annulment of Socialist government's extensive agrarian reforms (parcelling of land among peasants).

Restitution of all confiscated property (churches, educational institutions, factories and estates seized by the Madrid government).

Suppression of Loyalist labor organizations to be replaced by Fascist bodies.

The Burgos junta asserted it had decided to punish provinces refusing to join in the revolt by "wiping them off the map."

If the revolution is successful, the ancient kingdom of Navarre, which sent thousands of troops to the rebel cause, would be given an outlet to the sea through Gulpuzcoa Province on the Bay of Biscay. It is there that rebels are battling for possession of Iru and San Sebastian.

Semi-autonomous Catalonia would disappear under rebel plans and become a part of Aragon.

Asturias, where hard-fighting miners caused the Fascists much trouble, would be split into new administrative districts.

Possession of seaports by the inland provinces siding with the rebels would give them increased tax revenue.

The Loyalist troops advancing toward Burgos were commanded by Jose Billarias, former governor of Burgos when it was in Loyalist hands. He fled to Santander when the revolt broke out.

The government troops had made forced marches from their base at Santona. Huge army trucks sped the Fascist forces northward to meet the invaders.

The Loyalist fighters had met little resistance in a 12-mile march and apparently the Fascists did not expect them and had few troops in the area.

Some rebel officers said the Loyalist column was a serious threat, inasmuch as it might necessitate calling for reinforcements from troops now fighting on the Madrid front.

Meanwhile, Fascist troops operating in the northern province of Asturias coordinated their columns to march against Espinosa, south of Santander, Bay of Biscay city.

Auto Supplants Burros in Gold Search Travels

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—The modern gold prospector, unlike the bearded "desert rat" of years gone by who followed his plodding burros across the sands, now seeks ore by automobile.

The auto has the advantage that a complete outfit can be carried and trips can be made for supplies with relative ease and speed.

But in mountainous country, the sure-footed burro still is the standby of the prospector.

A burro can be packed with about 150 pounds. It can live off the country in which it finds itself, and can go almost any place a man can reach by foot.

The principal objection to burros is that they must be rounded up each day to keep them from wandering afar. In fact, a prospector will spend about one-fourth of his working time chasing his burros.

Winter Is Near
The fact that winter is just around the corner is shown by the request that the ERN is receiving from needy families for coal stores. Anyone having such a store they desire to donate should call the ERN and it will be called for.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

One who expects only gratitude for his generosity, it seems is certainly entitled to that.

Mother—Now, Junior, I want you to go in and get acquainted with the new nurse and kiss her nice.

Junior—Yes, and got my face slapped like Daddy did!

All creatures live out in the sunshine except worms, bugs, creeping things and people.

Cleveland—What do you think of a man who will constantly deceive his wife?

Hamilton—I think he's a wonder.

Monkey House

First—Look at that one—the one staring at us through the bars. Doesn't he look intelligent?

Second—Yes. There's something uncanny about it.

First—He looks as if he understood every word we're saying.

Second—Walks on his hind legs, too, and swings his arms.

First—There! He's got a peanut. Let's see what he does with it.

Second—Well, what do you know about that? He knows enough to take the shell off before he eats it just like we do.

First—That's a female alongside him. Listen to her chatter at him. He doesn't seem to be paying much attention to her, though.

Second—She must be his mate.

First—They look kind of sad, don't they?

Second—Yes. I guess they wish they were in here with us monkeys.

You see stars of the first magnitude with the naked eye. Lesser ones are seen with almost everything naked.

Mr. Meek—But, my dear, all great men smoked, you know.

Mrs. Meek—Yes, Henry, and when you get to be a great man I shan't object to your smoking either.

You may put the poke on the cow and no matter which end of the fence she knocks down, after the votes are counted nobody's personal opinion will be changed a particle.

Heleen—Does electricity have any meaning to you?

Clarence—Only in a dim way.

A dilemma is when one's doctor recommends a vacation and the banker advises against it.

Friend—What did the master say when you returned his socks?

Wash Woman—Said they were darned good!

Entirely Probable

My lady loves a tenor whose voice to me is brittle.

But, oh, she loves him such a lot, and loves me such a little.

She listens by the radio and listens to his theme song.

His warbling keeps me wide awake, to her it is a dream song.

So all that I can do is wait till we have television.

And when she has a look at him she may change her decision.

Lawyer—Then your husband, I take it, is elderly?

Client—Elderly? Why, he is so old he gets winded playing chess!

Many a man who wouldn't waste a dime in real money, thinks nothing of squandering several dollars worth of time.

Son—Say, Daddy, what does it mean when the paper says some man went to a convention as a delegate-at-large?

Daddy—It means his wife didn't go with him, son.

The man who will stick is not very inspiring. Usually, he is not particularly able or brilliant. But he's pretty sure to stay off relief.

Sweet Young Thing—Last night I was kissed twenty times in twenty minutes.

Man—By the same man?

Sweet Young Thing—No. He was a changed man after the first kiss.

fooling yourself on your inventory is just as sensible and satisfactory as for an old maid to write love letters to herself.

The cost of government, according to the best estimates, takes more than 20 per cent of the national income. In other words, if we work five weeks, the proceeds of only four weeks' work is retained by us. The money paid us for the other week goes to government. Only a small part of this money is taken from us in direct taxes. The greater part filters its way into government coffers through "hidden" or indirect taxes. It is a major item in the cost of living.

HEM AND AMY.

LISTEN, AMY, I CAN'T HELP CLEAN OUT CLOSETS NOW. I'VE GOT TO TAKE CARE OF THE LAWN - IT'S DRYING UP.

NEXT I'LL CLEAN OUT THE VEGETABLE BINS... I'LL GET THEM TO LIFT THEM OUT FOR ME.

IT'LL ONLY TAKE HIM A MINUTE.

There's safety in every drop!

... because Tydol Gasoline not only drives your motor but protects it, too

Of course, old-fashioned gasoline will drive your modern motor... but that's not enough! These smaller engine parts working at higher speeds demand extra lubrication to keep down heat and friction... extra protection to keep down carbon and corrosion.

That's why Triple-Action Tydol Gasoline is built not only to drive your motor but to oil and clean

It too! Every single drop contains both a top-cylinder lubricant and a carbon solvent. With every turn of your motor all the upper parts are oil-coated and carbon cleaned. You get smoother, safer engine action... and you get it at the same price you now pay for old-fashioned gasoline.

That's why Triple-Action Tydol Gasoline is built not only to drive your motor but to oil and clean

Insert on Triple-Action Tydol. Save your motor and your money with this modern gasoline.

Presbyterians to Picnic Saturday

The various committees in charge of the annual picnic of the Rondout Presbyterian Sunday School to be held Saturday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Glenale are working hard to make it a big success.

Burt Van Deusen has kindly consented to take charge of the games and has a most interesting program arranged which will prove of interest to everyone. Mrs. Everett Schmitt will assist with the smaller children and the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., will have charge of the water sports.

Ralph Neville will have charge of the ice cream. Transportation will be in charge of Harold Metcalf who will have plenty of automobiles ready to convey all the members to the picnic grounds.

Those desiring transportation are requested to meet at the church tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 prompt. Everyone is to bring their own lunch and a cordial invitation is extended to the parents and members of the congregation to attend.

VISIT BEREAVED DERN FAMILY

Army Guns Mourn Secretary of War

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP).—As saluting guns boomed a mourning note from every fort flying the American flag, the army prepared today to render its highest honors at the funeral of George Henry Dern, secretary of war.

While Mrs. Dern and the secretary's three sons and two daughters made final plans for the last rites, the cabinet official's body lay in a coffin at Walter Reed Hospital in the outskirts of the capital. A guard of honor from the 16th brigade stood outside the door of the room where the 64-year-old secretary died yesterday of cardiac and kidney complications after an attack of influenza.

At President Roosevelt's order flags over the capitol and other buildings in the district of Columbia were at half staff while the entire army and navy, wherever stationed, went into official mourning.

Tentative plans for the funeral called for military services tomorrow from Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, where the secretary was shipped during his Washington residence. Later in the day, the funeral train will leave for Salt Lake City, where, with President Roosevelt in attendance, services will be held Tuesday.

Harry H. Woodring, acting secretary of war, and General Malin Craig, chief of staff, are among the high officials expected to accompany Mrs. Dern and the family on the westward journey.

Messages of sympathy reached Mrs. Dern from all parts of the world. Admiral William H. Stanley, acting secretary of the navy, ordered all ships at sea and naval stations to display the flag at halfmast until after the burial services. Mourning guns began firing at all army posts from Governor's Island in New York harbor to Manila and Tientsin, China, at half hour intervals until sunset.

New Railway Record

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—The streamlined Silver Jubilee Express of the London and North Eastern Railway, running from New Castle-on-Tyne to London, today established a new maximum speed record for British trains of 113 miles an hour. The record was believed here to be a world record for a steam-hauled passenger train.

American Girl Attains Place In Royal Circle

Mrs. Ernest Simpson, formerly of Baltimore, is King Edward's choice as dancing partner.

London (AP)—Coupled with rumors of King Edward VIII's impending engagement to a shy-eyed young Danish princess, a bright new light beats today around the somewhat mysterious figure of Mrs. Ernest Simpson, the former Miss Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, Md.

The darkly beautiful American girl, noted both for her sparkling conversation and as one of the best-dressed women in England, has flurried Mayfair for the last two years.

London newspapers now say she has been a member of the King's vacation yachting party.

Court Circular Lists Name When the official Court Circular from Buckingham palace announced that Mr. and Mrs. Simpson were among the guests at a private dinner party given by the King, the British news magazine Cavalade published a column about Mrs. Simpson and her friendship with the bachelor, King-Emperor of the British Empire.

A few weeks later Mrs. Simpson's name again appeared in the Court Circular as a dinner guest at the palace.

Long the King's choice as dancing partner, Mrs. Simpson reputedly won her way into the coveted royal circle—the shining goal of every dowager.

Embargo on War Goods for Spain

Rome, Aug. 28 (AP)—Italy officially announced today embargo of all war materials to Spain.

The decree forbids "exportation, direct or indirect, or re-export for transit with its destination Spain or Spanish possessions or the Spanish zone in Morocco of arms, munitions, war materials, also airplanes, mounted and unmounted, and warships. "The prohibition applies to all contracts in the course of execution," the decree said.

The Italian government earlier had announced it considered the ban on armament shipment already in effect but the decree apparently was designed to answer a request by Great Britain and France for a formal declaration.

There is one good thing about the war in Spain. Up to this time neither side has approached Uncle Sam to borrow money.

Quick Reaction to Ickes' Speech from Republican Heads

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—Secretary Ickes' campaign speech in which he linked the names of Governor Alf M. Landon and William Randolph Hearst, publisher, brought quick reaction today from Republican quarters.

The cabinet member, in a broadcast address last night, described Hearst as the "new Republican boss," who had cautioned Landon "against talking too much."

Evidence he said was given in court last July by George F. Harding, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, was used by Ickes in discussing what he called "the relationship existing between Governor Landon and Mr. Hearst."

Harding was quick to respond when informed of the Ickes statement. He was with Landon as the Republican presidential nominee's train crossed Illinois.

"Don't make me laugh. My lip is cracked," said Harding. "I just came from hearing Governor Landon make 10 speeches."

In his address Ickes read a memorandum he said was presented in a court case as being from Hearst to Harding, which read:

"I was very much impressed by what you had to say about Governor Landon not making too many speeches. If you will write me to that effect expressing your views as frankly as you did when you were talking I will, with your permission, send the letter to Governor Landon. It cooperates with and supports what I have already told the governor, and I feel that such views coming from such an important man as yourself would have a great and valuable influence."

Harding declared at Chicago that he did not recall the conversation with Hearst, but said:

"However, I do not care to dignify the charges with an answer. It seems that this is the only way they can attack Governor Landon."

Speaking under the auspices of the Republican National Committee, William Hard said in a radio address from the capital last night it was "odd" that Ickes "should not know of the Hearst activities of the son of the gentleman whom he is supporting for the presidency."

Hard went on to say that Elliott Roosevelt "is exercising his legal and moral right to be in the Hearst service at this very time. He serves Mr. Hearst as vice-president of the Hearst radio broadcasting stations in Texas and Oklahoma. He also serves him as his representative in negotiations with the federal communications commission in Washington."

Hearst's name also was mentioned last night by Senator McAdoo, California Democrat, in an address to a dinner which launched Mr. Roosevelt's campaign in the coast state.

McAdoo described the publisher as "the Fascist."

Secretary Ickes, taking "Hearst over Topeka" as the theme of his address, declared that Landon had evaded issues during his eastern trip "except for his promise last night at Buffalo, if elected, to reduce taxes on corporation surpluses."

The cabinet member declared that Hearst's antagonism to the New Deal was attributable to the curtailment of "certain special privileges."

He said the publisher set out last winter to "build up" Landon for the nomination, and that Landon "gradually discarded every conviction that would link him with the progressive movement of the country or the New Deal."

On the north, the shore is bold and rugged, an almost continuous range of basalt cliffs. The south shore is chiefly low and sandy, with occasional limestone ridges, the most remarkable of which are known as the Pictured Rocks. This extraordinary formation, 14 miles long and about 300 feet high, forms one of the greatest natural curiosities in the United States.

might be well to stop calling them "brush fires."

Moffett Reduced For Loss of Papers

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—Naval officials indicated today that the loss of secret naval papers by Lieutenant William A. Moffett, Jr., who was court-martialed for carelessness, meant no serious damage to the national defense plans.

The 26-year-old son of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, killed in the crash of the dirigible Akron, had borrowed the papers to study for an examination for senior lieutenant. He was accused of carelessness, the navy revealed yesterday, when the papers disappeared from his automobile.

Admiral William H. Standley announced he had given approval to the court-martial sentence which reduced the lieutenant, now stationed at the Anacostia air station in Washington, by fifty places in the navy seniority list.

Settlement Made.
Joseph Kennedy of Chicago and Charles R. Mellus of Saugeier, who arrested each other on reckless driving charges following a collision Wednesday on the Saugeier road, withdrew the charges when their cases came up before Justice Walter Webber at Lake Katrine. A settlement was made between the drivers and the charges dropped. State Troopers Reilly and Elliot investigated the accident.

"Alarming Trend" In Traffic Deaths

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP)—The National Safety Council today warned the nation's all-time high traffic death total—37,000 in 1935—might be surpassed this year if the current "alarming trend" continued.

It reported 3,180 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents in July, three per cent more than in July, 1935, and the third consecutive month in which fatalities exceeded those of corresponding months last year.

The total for the first seven months of 1936 was set at 18,560. This was two per cent under the aggregate for the same 1935 period but Managing Director W. H. Cameron asserted:

"The trend is alarming because we have yet to pass through those months which in former years produced the largest number of traffic accident deaths."

"If the upward trend during the three months prior to August is not curbed sharply in the remainder of the year, we can prepare ourselves to read another all time record of slaughter on our streets and highways."

After all, there's something to those Russians. A Russian girl, operating two "combines" hitched together, has harvested 175 acres of wheat in one day. And then, no doubt, she went to a barn dance.

Bank Group Make Nationwide Survey

American and State Banking Associations Collaborate in Investigation
IMPROVED SERVICE THE AIM
Activities of the Government in the Banking Field Are Studied and Position of Banks Analyzed

NEW YORK.—Detailed bank researches, covering all phases of practical operating and economic facts and conditions related to banking, are being made by the American Bankers Association. The resulting material is being placed at the disposal of all state banking associations, which in many instances are extending the researches of the national association in their own states. These activities are said to be a part of the general program of banking development which is being carried on by the organized banking business.

Among the most extensive researches being conducted by the American Bankers Association is that of its Committee on Banking Studies, which is making a detailed survey of Federal Government lending agencies and policies. The basic material, which is kept up to date by continuing studies, shows where the Government agencies get the money they lend, what liability the Government assumes, what subsidy it extends, what return it gets, for what and to whom the money goes and on what terms it is loaned.

The Government in Banking
It is not the intention of the committee to express its viewpoint about any agency," says the foreword to this material. "Its intention is only to determine the facts. These facts properly assembled and presented should help banks to meet Government competition if and where it exists. The committee believes the Government entered the lending field at a critical period in order to aid banks and financial institutions. If the time has come for the Government to withdraw, it is the duty of bankers to demonstrate their readiness to take care of all sound credit needs."

It adds that the banks must be equipped with full factual material as to the Government's emergency lending activities and practices, and that full cooperation has been given the committee by Government agencies in obtaining facts. Binders of the material gathered have been placed by the committee in the hands of state associations.

Investigation of Postal Savings
The Committee on Banking Studies has also made a survey of the Postal Savings System throughout the United States to ascertain to what extent it is competing with chartered banks. Questionnaires were sent to banks in all places where Postal Savings depositories are operated and their answers will be analyzed as a basis for the committee's findings.

European Economic Reform Probable

Paris, Aug. 28 (AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's "economic dictator," conferred with Premier Leon Blum and headed homeward today at the close of a combined political-financial mission in which, informed sources said, he pressed for a Franco-German trade accord as the starting point of a general rapprochement.

The Schacht-Blum conference lasted an hour and, while the principals would not disclose its details, there were rumors in financial circles that the Bank of International Settlements might be made the agent for a vast project of European economic and monetary reform.

Dr. Schacht, who is reichsminister of economics and president of the Reichsbank in Nazi Germany, declared himself eminently satisfied with "results" before boarding a plane for Berlin.

Despite assertions of French officials they would "follow up" his rapprochement appeals, however, many informed sources believed there were insurmountable obstacles in the way of their fulfillment.

Republican National Chairman John Hamilton, in a recent statement denied the story that he is foreign born. Maybe somebody got him mixed up with Alexander Hamilton.

Americans are generous enough to hope that Nazis with long-distance radio have a nice time next winter listening to Eddie Cantor and Jesse Owens.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—An occasional profit taking stumble tended to restrain a resumption of the stock market's advance today, but many issues were able to push forward fractions to a point or more.

Rails were out in the lead early and the majority were around their tops of the day near the final hour. Some of the motors, aircrafts, oils, alcohol, farm implements and smaller steels were in demand.

Relatively heavy dealings in the morning brought the turnover up to approximately 1,450,000 shares. The volume dwindled during the realizing surges. The close was firm.

Among the better performers were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Delaware and Hudson, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Deere, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Electric Power & Light, American Power & Light, Anaconda, Plymouth Oil, Barnsdall, du Pont, Schenley, Hiram Walker, Commercial Credit, Mesta Machine, Loew's, American Sugar Refining and Philip Morris.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors and Goodyear were inclined to mark time. U. S. Industrial Alcohol came back after its drop yesterday.

Bribes Admitted In Geoghan Case

evidence?" the special prosecutor inquired.

"Yes, we thought it important," Geoghan answered.

Todd then launched an attempt to determine if statements taken from members of the Luckman and Drukman families were speedily presented to the grand jury.

Geoghan replied that "it did not occur to me personally" that it was important to present this immediately to the grand jury, and asserted a "chaotic condition" would result if he attempted "to take every witness before a grand jury the minute he made an important statement."

Questioned by Todd:

Q—You could have held over the March grand jury and presented this case to them, instead of the April grand jury?

A—Our case was not ready until April. We did what we thought was proper.

Todd brought out that the last two hearings before the grand jury were held on May 8, and 10, 1935.

Geoghan admitted that Hyman Barshay, his assistant who had been presenting the case, did not appear at those sessions. The presentation by then, he said, was "substantially completed" and Barshay had been assigned to other work.

Questioned by Todd:

Q—Did you give Barshay any instructions not to appear before the grand jury May 1?

A—I did not.

Q—Have you any explanation as to why he did not?

A—I have answered that several times. He was assigned to other work.

Todd then reverted to the testimony of Harry S. Sullivan, assistant district attorney, before the extraordinary grand jury.

The transcript quoted Sullivan as saying it was the "dictated attorney's orders" to present the Drukman case to the November grand jury on consecutive days.

In November, Sullivan, he reiterated, was in charge of the case, and his superior considered him "competent" to handle the details.

Later, after a hurried conference with his special counsel the governor asked Todd if he planned to link Geoghan with any tampering with the grand jury or anyone else or whether any such charge was made.

"There is no charge that he had any corrupt connection with it," Todd replied.

When Todd asked permission for his aide, J. Edward Lumbard, Jr., to read a transcript of Carmine Anzalone's testimony before the extraordinary grand jury as to "corruption and tampering with" the April grand jury, Stryker shouted that this "was not known to him, Mr. Geoghan or anyone else until much later." He demanded that the reading be forbidden.

Stryker leaped to his feet to demand that Todd show certain transcripts testimony to Governor Lehman before reading it.

"I charge you with bad faith," he shouted.

It was withdrawn, Todd saying it would be offered later under another specification.

Stryker protested that he thought the sole purpose of introducing the Anzalone statement was to "damage Mr. Geoghan in the newspapers."

Adherence To His Stand.

He asked Mr. Lehman to reconsider his decision to permit reading of the testimony, but the governor adhered to his stand.

Lumbard then said the transcript of Anzalone's testimony.

This testimony related in detail a story of bribery in the Drukman case, including a proposed offer of $100 to a grand juror to vote against indictment of Harry and Meyer Luckman and Fred J. Hull.

"Frankly, I'm going to permit the reading of this testimony," the governor said when Stryker sought to interrupt the reading.

"Frankly, I think it should not have been introduced and that there is nothing to connect it with the removal case," he continued.

"Certainly, it has not yet been established that there was an unreasonable delay. Except in case of proved evidence of unreasonable delay, this testimony would have no weight in this case."

However, the executive said he thought it would be "unfair to Mr. Geoghan to interrupt the reading now—it would unnecessarily create an air of mystery."

With the completion of the reading of Anzalone's testimony, Lumbard asked permission to enter into the record without reading the testimony of Theodore Cohn, the grand juror to whom Anzalone had testified he had offered the $100 bribe, and Cohn's wife, Harriet.

The governor permitted it.

After Lumbard's recital ended, Stryker presented Dr. Joseph S. Baldwin, New York city police surgeon, as a witness in behalf of Geoghan. This was under an agreement with Todd.

Dr. Baldwin Testifies.

Dr. Baldwin was called to testify concerning Detective Charles S. Connelly, who first reported that some one had offered a $100,000 bribe in the Drukman case.

The doctor said John G. Broadly, Todd's chief aide, came to him and asked that he arrange a mental examination to determine Connelly's mental condition. Since Broadly considered Connelly his "key witness" in prosecuting charges of conspiracy in the Drukman case.

Broadly asked him, Dr. Baldwin said, if he thought Connelly was sane and that he required be considered the

Roosevelt Off on Another Inspection Of Farms in Dakota

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 28 (AP)—

President Roosevelt set out today on another train and motor inspection of sun-scorched farms in North and South Dakota after studying a voluminous report of his special drouth committee recommending a 15-point program to transform the whole economic scheme in the great arid area.

His nine-car special train which left Bismarck at 8:30 a. m. (Central Standard Time) was to take him first to Jamestown, N. D., then to Aberdeen, S. D., for personal surveys of crop-battered areas.

The Chief Executive had his first close-up view of the drouth havoc late yesterday on a 50-mile motor trip around Bismarck and Mandan—a tour which prompted him to say later in a rear platform talk at the North Dakota capital:

"What I have seen confirms me in the belief we are going to win on this problem."

Shortly before entering a train conference last night with acting Governors Walter Welford of North Dakota and Elmer E. Holt of Montana—at which the drouth committee report, proposing land and water conservations, received minute examination—President's aides announced Mr. Roosevelt's itinerary for next week would be interrupted to permit him to attend the funeral of Secretary of War Dern at Salt Lake City Tuesday.

This was the date the drouth conference with Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, and four other governors was to have been held at Des Moines. The latter meeting now is tentatively set for next Thursday on the return from Salt Lake.

Original plans for tomorrow's conference at Pierre, S. D., with the governors of South Dakota and Wyoming will be adhered to, but officials said dates and times for conferences at St. Paul, Minn., LaCrosse, Wis.; Springfield, Ill., and Indianapolis, Ind., and the bridge dedication at Hannibal, Mo., have yet to be decided.

The President will spend tomorrow night at Rapid City, S. D. He will leave there Sunday for Salt Lake.

In submitting his report to the President, the drouth committee said:

"We endanger our democracy if we allow the great plains or any other sections of the country to become an economic desert."

The committee had just concluded a personal survey of nine states with drouth-hit areas embracing 40,000,000 acres of cropland.

"The fundamental purpose of any worthwhile program," it said, "must be not to depopulate the region, but to make it permanently habitable."

In his rear platform talk, the President said the question boiled down to three problems—keeping people going who have lost crops and livestock, helping them until spring rains arrive, and working out a "plan of cooperation with nature instead of going along with what we have been doing in the past—trying to buck nature."

Birds' Nest Soup

Wealthy Chinese relish a soup that is made from birds' nests. The birds are a species of swift, and they are provided by nature with special glands in the mouth which secrete a glutinous substance, and from this they make their nests. These nests resemble gelatin, and when stewed down make an excellent soup. The Chinese believe that birds' nest soup possesses wonderful strengthening properties, and persons are often ordered this soup by their doctors.

First Maker of Pretzels

Pretzels were first made in this country in Lititz, Pa. Back in 1810 a German vagrant visited that little town and imparted to a baker, in return for kindnesses, the secret of making and baking the cake that became known as the pretzel. It was instantly popular, and in the following years many bakeries sprang up in Lititz to take care of the demand.

Clamming for Pearls

Clamming is carried on principally for the shells, which bring a fair price from button manufacturers. But within the heart of every clammer is the hope that he may find some pearls, and they usually do, although most of them are of low value. The meat is also sold, principally to fish hatcheries, to be used as food for the breeding stock of fish.

Largest Man in Congress

Dixon H. Lewis, who served several terms in the house of representatives from Alabama and in 1944 was appointed a senator from the same state, is said to have been the largest man who ever sat in congress. He was so large that special chairs had to be made for him. Although his exact weight is not recorded, tradition says he weighed more than 300 pounds.

detective a "pathological liar," although he was not an expert in such cases.

Dr. Baldwin said he declined to arrange a mental examination for Broadly, but told him that would have to be handled through an application to Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine.

After obtaining Valentine's permission, he said, he finally arranged with Dr. M. S. Gregory to make the examination because the regular police alienists were not available.

On January 1, 1936, Dr. Baldwin said he reported the arrangements to Commissioner Valentine, who approved them. This conference, he said, occurred in the Kings county district attorney's office.

Married 60 Years.

On Wednesday, August 19, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Schoonmaker of Newburgh celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at the home of their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Atkins in New Paltz. They have lived there most of the time since, save for a period when they resided in Irvington, N. J. Mr. Schoonmaker is now 82. For a number of years he was employed by the old shipbuilding firm of Ward, Stanton and Company and later with its successors, the Marvel Shipyards. The Lake Katrine Grange will hold its first September meeting on September 8. The program should be full of surprises and interest as it is in charge of the ladies who were present at the last meeting. Watch for further news.

TURTLE PULLS IN NECK.

GETS IT IN NECK LATER

Chicago, (AP)—Myrtle's reprieve having expired, Gustav Beran is serving 20 gallons of turtle soup.

Beran, tavern owner, planned Myrtle's execution for July 24, so he could make soup. When Myrtle pulled in her neck the bullet, intended for her, lodged in Beran's foot. He went to the hospital, Myrtle to solitary confinement.

When Beran came home in a wheel chair, he had Myrtle staked in his yard, took careful aim, with the rifle away from his feet, and let fly. The execution was perfect.

Irrving Lazarowitz, 16, of 126 Main street, Poughkeepsie, made the mistake of passing a truck on a hill near Highland Thursday and was arrested by Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper Baker on a charge of reckless driving. Lazarowitz was arraigned this morning before Justice S. G. Carpenter, who imposed a fine of $10, with alternative of 10 days in jail. He was brought to the county jail by Special Police Officer Clarke but after being committed paid his fine and was discharged.

MOTORCYCLE CRASHES INTO

AUTO NEAR KERHONKSON

A motorcycle driven by Coles Dutcher of Ellenville, who was returning home from Kingston, crashed into the automobile of Louis Osterhoudt of Pataukunk, near the top of the Deyo hill north of Kerhonkson, Wednesday morning.

Dutcher was taken to the Veterans' Memorial Hospital at Ellenville, where it was found that he had suffered injuries to his wrist, knee and a finger, the latter being cut to the bone. He was also badly bruised. Osterhoudt was slightly injured, being cut by broken glass from his windshield.

ELLENVILLE SCHOOLS WILL

NOT OPEN TILL SEPTEMBER 8.

Ellenville public schools will reopen on Tuesday, September 8, the day after Labor Day. Because of the summer hotel business the opening has been placed later than many of the schools in this section.

The high school will provide a full physical education and library program this year. A woman physical training director has been engaged and will have charge of the girls' gym classes. Kenneth C. Clark will remain as physical training instructor in charge of boys.

More Than 7,000 Saw Rexall Train

Before the Rexall Streamline train, brought here by the Rexall drug concern, whose local agents are the McBride stores, left last night for Middletown, officials said that the "electric eye" register counted 7,865 visitors to the great advertising display. The train went from Kingston to Middletown, where a district convention of Rexall dealers is being held.

Public interest in the train surpassed all expectations of William McBride and the Rexall officials who welcomed the crowd, which reached its zenith about 8:30, when a line reached from one end of the train to the other. There were 12 cars painted Royal blue.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman was among the crowd of visitors, as were Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Attorney Roger H. Loughran, president of the Kiwanis Club, and Louis K. Liggett, president of the United Drug Company of Boston. This concern is sponsoring the trip of the Rexall train throughout the country. Mr. Liggett was presented by Mr. McBride with a picture of the Senate House.

After last night's reading of the automatic registering device, it was said more than 1,100,000 people visited the train since it started from Boston on March 27, covering an itinerary that brought it to 150 cities. The train is drawn by an oil-burning streamline locomotive, weighing 350 tons. There are two convention cars, with a seating capacity of 250 each, a buffet diner, lounge car, a Pullman sleeper, a Pullman compartment car and Mr. Liggett's private car.

Rip Van Winkle, who walked the streets Thursday afternoon, advertising the train, was on hand last night to talk to the children who visited the train with their parents. "I think Kingston is a wonderful city," he said. "Mayor Heiselman has invited me to come back, and I hope I get the opportunity some time."

"World's Fair" Date Is September 30

That famous yearly event, the World's Fair, held on the grounds of the Newversink Agricultural Society at Grahamsville, will be held September 30 this year.

The Grahamsville fair is a town fair and does not participate in the funds distributed by the state among county fairs. Despite this, it has continued to run successfully for a long term of years and is still going strong when some of the subsidized county fairs have folded up and gone out of business.

The fair each year draws crowds of around seven thousand people and has become recognized as a genuine "old home day" event, people coming from long distances to spend the day and greet old friends. In this respect it is much like the old Ulster County Fair in its earlier days.

Garage Holdup

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—Two robbers held up three men in a Bronx garage today and escaped with $155. The holdup pair got away in a sedan after warning their victims not to follow them. Dave Gottlieb (1450 McCombs road), owner of the garage, was talking to William Stern (1132 Elder avenue), a truck driver, and Benjamin Cohen (849 Whitlock avenue), a helper, when the stick-up pair confronted them. Stern told detectives that the robbers got $105 from him and $50 from Gottlieb.

New Sino-Japanese Incident.

Tokyo, Aug. 28 (AP)—Japan's war navy and foreign ministers conferred tonight on the newest troublesome Sino-Japanese incident and the Domei News Agency reported, agreed the Tokyo government must "deal sternly" with China. Official spokesmen, however, insisted further information concerning the killing of two Japanese at Chentung, China, by a Chinese mob, was awaited before the government's course was determined.

Summer Hotels and Restaurants Must Make Contributions

First Drive on Seasonal Trade Made by Director of Unemployment Insurance and Assistant Attorney General—Liabilities and Rights of Workers Told—Who Must Insure.

Albany, Aug. 28.—To safeguard 3,000 proprietors and operators of summer hotels and restaurants, employing approximately 25,000 workers, against being delinquent in making their contributions to the State Unemployment Insurance Fund, Glenn A. Bowers, Director of the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance of the Department of Labor, and Joseph P. Craugh, Assistant Attorney General, attached to this division, have jointly sent out a letter advising these employers of the need of their compliance with the law.

New York, besides being the largest industrial state of the union, is also one of the most popular vacation states. The Catskill Mountains and the Adirondacks, practically deserted in the winter months, draw large crowds of summer vacationists beginning between Decoration Day and the Fourth of July and ending, as a rule, on Labor Day. The feeding, housing and entertaining of summer patrons constitutes one of the greatest seasonal industries in this state. It is estimated that approximately 25,000 workers are employed in this summer trade, among them cooks, waiters, waitresses, chambermaids, helmsmen, entertainers, camp counselors and telephone operators.

According to the provisions of the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law which became effective on January 1, 1936, an employer is subject to the law if he has employed at least four persons in each of thirteen or more calendar weeks in either 1935 or 1936. Such an employer must register with the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance by sending in the official initial statement giving his name, address and the nature of his business. In addition, he must file monthly summary payroll reports, stating the number of insured employees and their wage and hour records. Contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Fund must be made monthly.

Employers not liable for any contribution must file the official statement governing an employer who is not subject to the law. All forms concerned with these matters are furnished by the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance. "It is clear to us," said Mr. Bowers, commenting on this initial survey of a large seasonal industry, "that not all of the 3,000 employers to whom we have written will be contributors under the State Unemployment Insurance Law. About half, it is expected, will be eliminated under either of the two major provisions of the law making contributions compulsory. Some do not employ four persons; others do not have a season of at least thirteen weeks. It is the responsibility of employers to inform us of their liability or lack of it under the law. Those liable must send in their statements and their contributions at once."

"Equally concerned with the 3,000 employers in this seasonal work are the estimated 25,000 workers who are employed in summer hotels and restaurants. The Unemployment Insurance Law was passed to protect them, among others, against future unemployment. It is to their interest, therefore, and to the interest of labor organizations desirous of seeing this labor enactment properly administered, to inform themselves as to employers' compliance."

The letter to employers follows: Gentlemen:

The New York State Unemployment Insurance Law became operative on January 1, 1936.

A search of our records discloses that you have failed to register with this division, either as a contributing employer or as an employer not subject to the law.

Forms for this purpose are included with Instruction No. 2, which we are sending to you under separate cover.

Please execute the proper form and return to this office immediately. Instructions No. 1 and No. 3, together with a copy of the law and our official interpretations, are also being sent to you.

If you are an employer subject to the law (see No. 100 Comment in our interpretations) you are liable for the payment of contributions in an amount equal to one per cent of the payroll incurred by you since January 1, 1936. Contributions are payable monthly (see Instruction No. 3).

In order to avoid interest charges (see Section 522 of the law) submit to this office immediately monthly summaries of your payroll together with your contributions.

Very truly yours,
GLENN A. BOWERS,
Executive Director.
JOSEPH P. CRAUGH,
Assistant Attorney General.

Wheat Farmers Have Payments

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Farmers who apply lime and superphosphate in seeding wheat or rye this fall are eligible for payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program if this wheat or rye ground is seeded to alfalfa or clover next spring.

This statement is made by Dr. V. B. Hart, state administrator of the program. He says these applications of lime and superphosphate may be made any time between August 1 and November 1, provided that the wheat or rye is sown after August 16. County committees must also determine that such applications of lime and fertilizer are made in preparation for seedings of clover, alfalfa, or legume mixtures in the spring of 1937.

Payments range from $1.50 an acre for applying 400 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate to the acre to $6.50 an acre for applying two tons of ground limestone and 400

Army Of Men Without A Country Still Gets Passports From League

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY

Geneva (P)—A million men without a country... A continuing world economic crisis which retards effective help for this great horde of refugees.

That is the problem confronting the Nansen International Office for Refugees, and the League of Nations. This problem of refugees became acute when, following the Soviet revolution in Russia, about a million "white" Russians fled from the civil strife.

International relief organizations jumped into the picture with the resultant creation by the League of Nations of an international office for refugees and the appointment as high commissioner of the Scandinavian explorer, now deceased, Dr. Fridtjof Nansen.

Passport System Worked Out
Nansen evolved as a solution for the refugee problem the now famous "Nansen passport".

Nansen soon had another assignment when some 350,000 Armenians had fled from Asia Minor.

Nansen is dead, but his work is being carried on by a Norwegian judge, Michael Hansson, president of the governing body of the Nansen International Office for Refugees.

In addition to Russians and Armenians, the Nansen office takes care of Assyrians, Assyro-Chaldeans, a few Turks and the refugees from the Saar Basin, who fled when a plebiscite decided that the Saar should return to Germany.

Nearly Million Refugees
Nansen passports are issued or recognized by governments generally to refugees asylees within their territory.

Judge Hansson, in his annual report to the League of Nations, estimates the number of Russian refugees at 700,000, Armenians at 350,000, Assyrians and Assyro-Chaldeans at 15,000 and the Saar refugees at 4,000.

Officials estimate that the total of Nansen passports issued is probably 1,500,000.

In other words, not all refugees ask for the Nansen passport, which are only needed when the refugees intend to travel from one country to another. If they stay in the country in which they have taken refuge, their only need is a "permit of residence". Geneva estimates France alone has given asylum to some 200,000 Russian refugees.

Jail Threatens Many
Despite efforts of the Nansen office to induce countries where refugees are located to give them naturalization rights, some governments expel refugees on the slightest pretext.

A refugee found penniless in a public park is ejected. He is imprisoned by the country to which he is ejected. Flooding back to the land that expelled him, he is sent to jail for violating the order of expulsion.

Russian refugees, travelling on Nansen passports issued by a League of Nations office, embark at Marseilles, France, to seek new homes in Russian Armenia.

alone has given asylum to some 200,000 Russian refugees.

Jail Threatens Many
Despite efforts of the Nansen office to induce countries where refugees are located to give them naturalization rights, some governments expel refugees on the slightest pretext.

A refugee found penniless in a public park is ejected. He is imprisoned by the country to which he is ejected. Flooding back to the land that expelled him, he is sent to jail for violating the order of expulsion.

Hence human beings, men without a country, outcasts, desired by nobody, spend their lives in being dispatched, like cattle, back and forth across national frontiers. There are refugees who have been imprisoned 15 times for the non-observance of expulsion orders.

"Loyal, inoffensive people are forced to hide, lead the lives of outlaws," the Nansen office reports, "and are finally driven to desperate acts, and often to suicide."

COEDS IN PHILIPPINES MAY TAKE ARMY LESSONS

Manila, P. I. (AP) Co-eds at the University of the Philippines will be given special training under the national defense program if plans of officials of the school are carried out. The Commonwealth department of military science has been asked by the university officials to draft plans for training the girls, who will specialize in Red Cross and relief work.

The Census Bureau says that on the average women outlive men by four years. One of our cynical bachelor friends says that they have a bigger margin than that on talking.

IT STARTED A HEAT WAVE
THIS BIG AND BEAUTIFUL BUICK AT $765

THE automobile business says that a motor car is "hot" when it enjoys outstanding public demand. On that basis, the 1936 line of Buicks has started a heat wave all its own.

Month by month sales have climbed. Buick not only tops all cars at or near its price in sales gain — the whole price class in which Buick sells is farther ahead of last year than any other, including the very lowest priced group!

There's something in that. When people start putting their dollars into Buicks instead of the lower priced cars — it's good proof that they're getting more for their money.

Better look into Buick. Especially this big, roomy Buick SPECIAL, Series 40 — beginning in price at $765, list at Flint, Mich. Let us know, and we'll be around with a demonstrator.

Critics Point To An Internal Battle In Olympic Organization

Aboard S S President Roosevelt, en route to New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The main squad of 239 American Olympic athletes, officials and coaches has decided to pass over New York's invitation to stay over a week after the arrival tonight for a civic reception.

But there's no indication they will pass up the opening to a big family scrap sometime during the winter.

The committee expressed willingness to meet the mayor's reception committee at quarantine, where the ship is due at 6 p. m. (Eastern Standard) tonight. It was pointed out, however, that many athletes are obliged to leave immediately for their schools or work and as a substitute it was suggested the possibility of a reception on the dock before the team disembarks tomorrow.

Meantime the outspoken comments of several critics have pointed definitely to an internal battle in the Olympic organization. It's almost certain the Eleanor Holm Jarrett case and the dropping of two Jewish sprinters, Sam Stoller and Marty Glickman, from the 400-meter relay team, will be thrashed out among the officials.

Likewise the intermittent warfare between college leaders and A. A. U. officials for control of the Olympic organization likely will be renewed.

Masters Comments.

Alfred Masters of Stanford, assistant track and field manager, indicated this by some pointed comments on the relations of Olympic officials and athletes.

"When mistakes in management and handling of athletes are repeated with such persistence as was manifested on this trip, the time has arrived to face the facts and reorganize," he said.

"I have many friends among the Olympic leaders and do not question their integrity, but I have frankly told them I question their judgment on several important points."

Blasts from Boxers.

Blasts from the boxing team are expected to be directed toward the organizing at the games. Roy Davis, team manager, said:

"If boxing officiating had been as efficiently and completely controlled by the sponsoring nations as in the case of track and field, the United States would have had four Olympic boxing champions. It's hard to believe anyone affiliated with amateur boxing could be so dumb as some of the decisions indicated."

Yesterday's Results.

Central Hudson noosed out Cananda last night at Hasbrouck Park by 9-8. Big Ed Strong was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause by hitting a home run with one man on base. The winners played with only nine men.

With Jim Norton holding the Telcos to six well scattered hits, the Board of Public Works defeated the phone boys by 5-2 at Roosevelt Field. The winners broke a 2-2 tie in the last of the sixth with a three run rally.

Score by Innings:

The Fair Street Reformers certainly are going at their softball in a serious way this week, playing and winning three games. Last night Harold Clayton again put on a one man show when he silenced the Port Ewen bats with only one run and then hit a home run himself in the sixth inning to win his own game. Port Ewen scored their lone tally in the first inning and held a 1-0 lead till the fourth when the Kingstonians tied the score. Marty Milan again turned in a fine pitching performance for the Port Eweners, but committed the serious error of losing the wrong ball to Clayton.

200 Crack Golfers On Hand for Glens Falls Open Tourney

Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—Upwards of 200 crack shot makers from all corners of the nation and Canada, including four former winners, began play today in the $2,500 Glens Falls Golf Open after sub-par practice firing that augurs sensational rounds before the 72-hole classic ends Sunday.

Heading the field are Tony Manero of Elmsford, National Open king and winner here in 1930, methodical-playing Denny Shute of Chicago, 1922 victor, youthful Jimmie Hines of Garden City, L. J., triumphant in 1933, and the veteran Willie MacFarlane of Purchase, who won last year with an aggregate 274, 14 under par for the 72 holes.

MacFarlane's winning score, a record for the eight-year-old event, appeared in jeopardy on the basis of scintillating exhibitions by sharpshooters who took their final practice swings yesterday.

Nine of those who posted cards for the complete 18 holes shot par 72 or under, and many others who were prevented by darkness from touring the entire course reported figures under regulation for the distance they went.

Lowest of the practice round cards was a 66—equal to the competitive course record—by Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., 1936 Metropolitan Open winner, while Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Kansas City, recent Massachusetts Open victor, carded a 68.

Manero, Hines and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis, who recently snared the Western Open, had 69's; Mike Turnesa of White Plains, 70; Herman Barron, White Plains, and Clarence Hackney, Northfield, N. J., 71, and Willie Klein of Williston, L. I., par 72.

Favorites Advance In National Tennis

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP)—The predictions made by the national doubles tennis committee before this week's Longwood competition were confirmed today as the tourney entered in the semi-finals today.

The defending champions, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, opposed Bobby Riggs and Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles. The U. S. Davis Cup team's pair, Don Budge and Gene Mako, faced Frankie Parke and Gregory Mangin of New Jersey.

In the women's doubles play, the defending champions, Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan were in the title round, awaiting the outcome of today's semi-final match between the second-seeded Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Sylvia Henrotin, France, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrum, New York.

Ace Trapshooters At Vandalia Today

Vandalia, O., Aug. 28 (AP)—America's ace trapshooters offered today their greatest show—the 100 target Grand American Handicap—on Vandalia's quarter-mile firing line.

About 800 shooters were expected in the event, the figure based on the 632 who fired in the preliminary handicap yesterday.

Ernest L. Hawkins of Fort Wayne, Ind., topped the preliminary with 57 of 100 from the 21-yard mark. Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, O., who has won four titles this week, was regarded as a threat to annex the Grand, but was handicapped by firing from the 25-yard line, while many of the other shooters were as close as 16 yards.

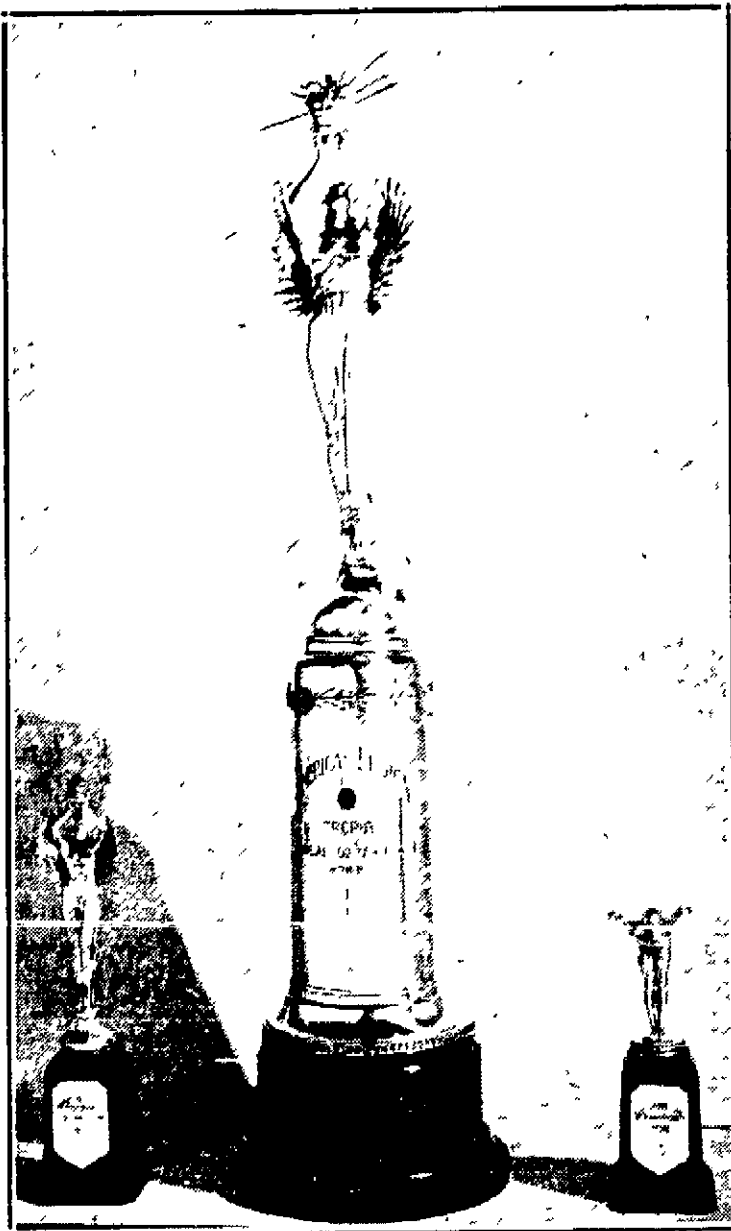

TODAY'S ALL STARS

DEFEAT ALTMAN'S ACES

Toronto's All Stars defeated the Altman's Aces last night in a hard played game at the Athletic Field by the score of 2-1 in eight innings. Coke Costello, on the mound for the All Stars, allowed the batters only three hits while his mates touched Avery for six. Giesler of the All Stars led the attack at the plate with three hits out of four trips. Atkins drove in the winning run in the eighth with a hard double.

The game tonight between the All Stars and Jackman's Ship Factory has been canceled.

Trophy For Fastest Swimmer at Williams Lake Sunday Afternoon

Donated by American Legion

Kingston American Legion, Post 150, will have inscribed on the large silver trophy pictured above, the name of Ulster county's fastest swimmer who proves his right to the honor in races to be held each year at Williams Lake Course. The sponsoring of this competition is one of the first civic acts of the newly installed officers of the local post under the leadership of Commander William T. Roedell.

The trophy measures 32 inches in height and is called "Dawn Victory". It has a silver finish and is mounted on a bakelite pedestal. The winner's name each year will be engraved on the face and the trophy which, during the summer season, will be on display at Williams Lake and, during the winter, in the trophy room at the American Legion Building. The person whose name is placed on the trophy will receive a replica of Dawn Victory for his permanent possession.

Requirements for entry in the races as set down by the American Legion are that they be permanent residents of Ulster county and that they meet the requirements of the A. A. U.

The fastest swimmers in the county will gather at Williams Lake on Sunday afternoon to compete for the honor of being the first to have his name engraved on the trophy. The program will be run off under the sanction of the Metropolitan A. A. U. and the feature event will be the 100 yard free style race which will be the "trophy distance".

OWENS' METHOD OLD STUFF TO MICHIGAN MENTOR

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—To Track Coach Charles B. Hoyt of the University of Michigan the "hold-your-breath" method that helps Jesse Owens run faster is nothing new.

Before Owens departed for the Olympics, he confided he won so often because he held his breath before the finishing sprint. His "secret" became public property after he monopolized the sprints at Berlin. Coach Hoyt, advancing the point that "tremendous physical effort is naturally accompanied by the holding of the breath," says most crack sprinters "don't breathe at all during the 100-yard dash."

"They take a deep breath just before the gun is fired," he explains, "and do not breathe again until the race is over."

Owens, he insists, has "just too much of everything else."

Girls' Diving Added Event in Woodcliff Water Carnival

A girls' diving contest has been added to the list of events for the first annual Hudson valley water derby conducted at Woodcliff Park, Poughkeepsie, on Sunday. Provided enough entries are received, a 220-yard relay will also be scheduled as a special feature.

Many of the leading swimmers in the valley have already entered the meet. These include the Idemas of Beacon, Henry, Pete and Barbara; Howie Zimmer, Ray Flavin, Don Andrews, Frank Waldorf and the Dingee sisters, Mary and Marion, of Poughkeepsie; Ruth Norena, Don Salmi, N. Heikala and Andrew Harpinan of Camp Lomala, Fishkill.

A complete team is expected from Camp Lomala as well as from Camp Winetka at Hyde Park, Williams Lake, Rosendale, the Millbrook bathing park and other pools.

Three more judges have been appointed, Edward Smith and Dr. Benjamin Perino of Poughkeepsie and County Clerk Frederic A. Smith. Others are Dr. Charles McDonald of Wassaic, Dr. Charles Kovacs and Perry J. Walsh of Poughkeepsie.

C. Fred Close, chief of the Dutchess county automobile bureau and former assemblyman, is to be the starter. Scorers include Ed. Alley, Drew Middleton and Charley Medworth.

The events include:

Girls (unlimited)—Fifty-yard free style; diving.
Boys (17 years and under)—Fifty-yard free style; diving.
Men—One hundred-yard free style; 220-yard free style; diving.

Automobile Races At Pine Plains On September 20

Pine Plains, Aug. 28.—The next program of automobile races at the new Legion Speedway will be held on Sunday, September 20, the management having decided to pass up the next regular racing date, September 6, in order that extensive improvements may be made to the track.

When this work is completed, the oval will be the equal if not better than any dirt motor speedway in the east. The September 20 card will be followed by races every other Sunday until as late in the autumn as the weather permits.

Elaborate plans for the raceway's future are being made by Shacameco Post, its sponsors, and indications are that Pine Plains is shortly to become known throughout the New England and Middle Atlantic States as one of the leading exponents of independent auto racing.

Faster and better races are in store for patrons of the speedway whom the intrepid pilots bring their speedy gas buggies back on September 20. All the old favorites will be there. Axel Rannholm, Ken Harlow, Allan Kellogg, Jerry Harley, Freddie Carlson, Gene Triankue, Dave Walker, George Bouley, Bud Hart and a host of others.

Yanks and Giants at Top of Heap As Campaign Enters Final Month

(By The Associated Press)

The big league baseball campaign heads into its last month today, and it's still a case of "pay your money and take your choice" on the chances of a subway series in New York or a Yankee-Cubs classic for the big prize.

While the Yankees have just about nailed the American League pennant to their flagpole, the galloping Giants and the Chicago champs are digging in for a finish fight for the National League bunting.

Although Bill Terry's crew is three games in the lead at the moment and a short-odd shot to come through as a climax to the greatest winning rush of the season, it's still anybody's ball game, particularly because, (1) the Giants have been getting the breaks, and those things can't last forever, and (2), the Cub pitching staff is back in form and they're battling on their home lot.

That the hurling of the Cub elbowed is tops again has been demonstrated since their return home. They've won five straight, winding up with a 1-0 decision over the Phillies yesterday.

The win boosted the Chicago crew into a tie for second place with the crippled Cardinals who bowed to the Bees for the fourth straight time, 1-0.

Even the weather man seemed to have signed up on the Giants' side, raining out the last game of the Cincinnati series to give them a day off when the whole outfit showed signs of weakening under the boiling western heat.

The postponement forced the play-off onto the Giants' home grounds later, where the New Yorkers will have a decided advantage.

The Yanks maintained their 12½ game edge in the American League by knocking off the Browns 7-1 behind Johnny Broaca's three-hit pitching, while the second-place Cleveland Indians had to go ten innings to overcome the Senators 10-9.

Connie Mack, an expert on pulling them out of the hat, uncovered a "boy wonder" possibility in 18-year-old Randall Gumbert, recent high-school graduate from up-state Pennsylvania, who mowed down the White Sox with two hits to give the Athletics a 5-2 win in his first big-league start.

Tommy Bridges chalked up his 18th hurling victory, pitching a four-hit, 4-2 win for the Tigers over the Red Sox.

Van Mungo ran into his customary hard luck as the Dodgers fell apart afield, committed four errors, and lost to the Pirates 6-3.

City League Teams Clash Tonight At Athletic Field In Third Game

The Hedrick Brewers with two fourth game victories to their credit, will cross bats with the Kaslich A. C. this evening at the Athletic Field in the third contest in their series for the City League championship. Johnny Bargevin will be on the mound for the upstown team tonight in an effort to check the hard hitting Brewers. "Schoolboy" Bush will be on hand for relief duty. The Hedricks will probably start young Leo Komosa. If the boys from Nick's fail to come through tonight their chances of stopping the Brewers from making a four straight will be very dim. Joe Brown, the Brewers' leading moundsman, has defeated Earl Evans twice and says he can do it again. Brown and Evans will pitch the

Fine Baseball Opportunity For Youths Says City Judge Culloton

Coaches Eddie Coughlin and "Bun" Rourke of the American Legion had their two teams on the field yesterday afternoon for a practice session in preparation for their game Saturday afternoon to be played at the Athletic Field for the benefit of Val Picinich, the major league scout. Picinich is coming to Kingston to look over the local material and Coughlin and Rourke have lined up the best players in this section. Kingston has not produced any players of major league calibre since Bernard A. "Bud" Culloton, now the city judge, was signed up by the Pittsburgh Pirates back in the days of the Kingston Colonials. Judge Culloton said this morning when interviewed by a reporter: "I think that the bringing of Mr. Picinich here to look over our local baseball talent is a very enterprising and thoughtful thing for the Legion to do. Since there is no outstanding team in Kingston to attract publicity here I think that this idea of bringing a big league scout to look over our young players is just the thing that will give us some baseball publicity. It's a fine opportunity for young, ambitious ball players."

The Legion hopes that Saturday's exhibition will bring to light some material worthy of Mr. Picinich's consideration. The field has been put in the best of shape for the occasion and a new topdressing of clay has been spread on the infield. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock and a large crowd of spectators is expected to be on hand to cheer the teams on.

The boys will lineup as follows:
Coughlin's
Bing Van Etten, first base.
Gil Kelder, second base.
Jimmy Quick, third base.
Francello, shortstop.
Ky Embree, right field.
Mac Tiano, center field.
Tommy Malnes, left field.
Joe Hoffman, Zedany, catchers.
J. Brown and Jimmy Martin, pitchers.

Rourke's
Tony Debrosky, first base.
C. Beck, second base.
Eddie Burgerin, third base.
Chapple Van Dersee, shortstop.
Andy Culuch, right field.
Johnny Quest, center field.
Andy Dykes, left field.
Don Kelly and McElrath, catchers.
Charles Neff and Leo Komosa, pitchers.

First Colonial Coinage
Struck by Massachusetts
The earliest coinage which can be called American, in the sense of Anglo-American, was ordered by the original Virginia company, only five years after the founding of Jamestown. The coins were minted at Somers Islands, now known as the Bermudas.

For a long while, states a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the standard currency of Virginia was tobacco, as in many of the early settlements of the Northwest it was beaver skins. In 1645 the assembly of the Virginia colony, after a preamble reciting that "it had maturely weighed and considered how advantageous a quoin would be to this colony, and the great wants and miseries which do daily happen unto it by the sole dependency upon tobacco," provided for the issue of copper coins of the denominations of 2 pence, 3 pence, 6 pence and 9 pence.

But this law was never carried into effect, so that the first colonial coinage of this country was that struck by Massachusetts under the order of the general court of that colony, passed May 27, 1632, creating a "mint house" at "Boston, and providing for the minting of "12 pence, 6 pence and 3 pence pieces, which shall be formed flat, and stamped on the one side with N. E. and on the other . . . the value of each piece."

In 1632, from this same mint appeared the famous "pine tree shillings," which were 2-penny pieces. This mint was maintained for 24 years.

Last Sayings of Various Presidents of the U. S.

The following were the last words of some of the Presidents of the United States:

John Adams, "Independence forever!" John Quincy Adams, "It is the last of earth! I am content!" James Buchanan, "O Lord Almighty, as Thou wilt; Millard Fillmore, 'The food is palatable'; James A. Garfield, 'The people my trust'; Ulysses S. Grant, 'Water'; Benjamin Harrison, 'Are the doctors here?'; William Henry Harrison, 'I wish you to understand the true principles of government. I wish them carried out. I ask nothing more'; Andrew Jackson, 'I hope to meet each of you in heaven. Be good children, all of you, and strive to be ready when the change comes'; Thomas Jefferson, 'I resign my spirit to God, my daughter to my country'; James Madison, 'I always talk better lying down'; William McKinley, 'It is God's way. He will be done, not ours'; Zachary Taylor, 'I am about to die. I expect a summons soon. I have endeavored to discharge all my official duties faithfully. I regret nothing, but am sorry that I am about to leave my friends'; George Washington, 'It is well.'

It is stated that the President on his trip north didn't find a single Canadian who objected to Corbett's reciprocal tariff treaty.

Winning Combination

GRANVILLE IS FOLLOWING IN THE STEPS OF HIS SIRE - GALLANT FOX.

STOUT WAS UP WHEN GRANVILLE WON THE BELMONT, THE ARLINGTON CLASSIC AND THE TRAVERS.

WIN OR LOSE GRANVILLE ALWAYS MAKES THE FINISH CLOSE

Jockey Jimmy Stout passed up a flock of tempting offers last winter to remain with Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. It proved to be a wise decision, for it gave Stout the chance to ride William Woodward's Granville in all his big engagements. And since the son of Gallant Fox is well on the way to clinch 3-year-old honors of the current season, Stout is destined to earn an important place in turfdom's hall of fame.

Things did not break any too well for the Granville-Stout combination early in the season. They did all right in a cheap overnight race at Jamaica which served as Granville's 3-year-old debut, but ran into trouble in the Wood Memorial when Teufel, with Eddie Littenberger up, beat them by a nose. In the Kentucky Derby Stout was tossed when Granville stumbled shortly after the barrier went up. Stout allowed Ira Hanford to pick his mount off with Bold Venture right under the wire in the Preakness. Firethorn won a nose decision over Granville in the Suburban Handicap.

Granville found himself in the Belmont when he caught Mr. Bones at the last 16th pole and beat him by a nose in another close decision. Then about the only race which Granville won by a comfortable margin. Here he held a 2-length margin over Mr.

Bones in the Kenner Stakes. Granville went back to his old ways and came dangerously close to being beaten by Memory Book.

Told 'Em In Travers.
In the Travers Stakes Granville gained a nose decision over Warren Wright's Sun Teddy after having been fouled several times en route. Granville ran a great race to win the Travers. He just about convinced everyone that he was the best horse of his age, performing like a real champion where a horse with less courage would have quit. Aside from the fouling which hindered Granville's progress there was the muddy condition of the racing strip to contend with.

Granville was never considered a good mudder but in the Travers the game son of Gallant Fox showed that he could run under any conditions. The track at Saratoga was in just about the same shape as it was on the memorable occasion a few years back when Gallant Fox lost a decision to a 100-to-1 shot, Jim Dandy, in the Travers.

Granville, like Gallant Fox and most of his get, is a notorious loper when in front. He will run his head off to catch the other horses in the field but once up with them he is satisfied to ease up and stay with the leaders. That is the main reason why almost every race he has taken part in this year has resulted in a close finish—on most occasions, too close for comfort.

Troopers Called for Ku Klux Conclave

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP).—State Troopers will be on hand September 5-7 for a huge conclave of a reorganized Ku Klux Klan, it was promised today as a result of a protest last night to the Courtlandt town board.

In distributing handbills of the "gigantic field day" over Labor Day week-end the Klan announced a new membership drive with headquarters in Yonkers.

At a special meeting of the town board last night to receive bids the Rev. Francis F. Doyle of St. Patrick's Church, Verplanck's Point, appeared with a group of followers to protest the "burning of fiery crosses" proposed in the Klan notice.

Father Doyle said his group appeared as Americans, that they had no objection to the meeting or speeches but did oppose the burning of "the symbol of Christianity."

The board passed unanimously a resolution "forbidding the burning of crosses" at the Klan conclave. It instructed Town Counsel Charles Blank to communicate with the state police and the Westchester county sheriff's office to ask for help in enforcing the resolution.

Captain Christopher Kemmer of Troop K, Hawthorne, said if it were not clear what law or ordinance the town board referred to when he received its communication he will ask the attorney general at Albany for a ruling on the call for aid. But at any rate he will have troopers on hand as he does at all large gatherings, Captain Kemmer said.

In the absence of Sheriff George A. Casey today Deputy Sheriff Fred Ruggie said he thought the request for help would be turned back to the town of Courtlandt unless the complaint was that a law was being violated.

Town Hall, sometimes called the "cradle of American liberty," is in Dorset, Mass.

New Anglo-Egyptian Treaty Puts an End to Fifty Years of Strife

British Parliament Has Yet to Act on Agreement Signed Wednesday, Calling for End of British Occupation of Egypt.

GOOD 20 YEARS

Believed British Ratification Will Take Place in November, Making Treaty Effective at Once.

London, Aug. 28 (AP)—Great Britain and Egypt, after 50 years of strife, are bound to friendly mutual assistance under the new Anglo-Egyptian treaty, the text of which was made public today.

The treaty was signed Wednesday and has yet to be acted upon by the British parliament.

Under its provisions, British military occupation of Egypt would be ended. Each country would be represented in the capital of the other by an ambassador and Egypt would apply for membership in the League of Nations under British auspices.

The treaty, effective for 20 years, would come into force upon ratification. It was believed here that British parliamentary action probably would be effective in November.

Both parties to the pact would conclude no other treaty inconsistent with the alliance.

They would consult each other with a view to peaceful settlement of any dispute with a third state threatening disruption of relations with that state.

Although the treaty runs for 20 years, negotiations for revision may be begun at any time after 10 years. Egyptian assistance to the United Kingdom would take the following form:

"In the event of war, an imminent war or an apprehended international emergency, Egypt will accord all facilities in its power to the United Kingdom, these facilities and assistance, i. e., the use of Egyptian ports, airdromes and means of communication, all necessary administrative and legislative measures, including the establishment of martial law and effective censorship."

For the protection of the Suez Canal, Britain is authorized to maintain in the canal zone forces not exceeding 10,000 land troops and 400 pilots.

The Egyptian government will construct in the canal zone additional barracks required for British troops, provide emergency supplies and build roads.

When this work is finished to the satisfaction of both governments, British troops other than those on the canal will be withdrawn.

The Egyptian army and air force will be perfected, in the interests of the alliance, with the advice of a British military mission.

U. S. Affected
New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The United States and 12 other nations enjoying extraterritorial rights in Egypt will be asked to give them up in order to complete the tentative independence to be reestablished in that ancient nation.

The Anglo-Egyptian treaty being made public today in London is the strangest "declaration of independence" ever conceived for a nation in modern times.

The broad outlines of the scheme were agreed upon when the writer was in Cairo for the Associated Press last spring. It is confirmed authoritatively that the next diplomatic step will be for Britain to persuade the United States and other nations to surrender voluntarily the capitulations they have enjoyed in Egypt since it was part of Turkey. A conference for this purpose is the official plan.

Abolition of capitulations will mean that the 800 Americans in Egypt and American tourists will no longer have right of being tried only by an American consul for criminal charges.

But the mixed tribunals, a special

AT SUMMER THEATRES

The evolution of Susee Sachs, "A church mouse—that part of the human race, which finds it hard to get a job and does not know where the next meal is coming from," spun a web of enchantment about a first night audience at the Maverick Theatre last night when the presentation of Ladislav Fodor's play, "A Church Mouse," won those present with a variety of comedy, humor, romantic intrigue, pathos and delightful sentiment. To Boris MacDonald in the leading role must go top honors in acting for any play so far this season.

Robert Elwyn's summer theatre group seemed not a group of actors, trodding the board floor, but rather a little living section of humanity with no great moral to present but just a story, a tale about the insignificant little person who through ability and later charm won the plaudits of a Viennese baron, his brother and a number of other important people, and who in the bargain captured the heart of her employer.

Miss MacDonald as the ultra-efficient secretary, whose main objective in life was a "full" meal, but who was so capable that she speeded up the fastest thinking and acting bank executives in Europe, blossomed into an actress of real ability. Time and time again her arrivals and departures from the wings of the theatre drew rounds of applause.

Second in importance in this play was Frank Rothe, of whom every one expects a capable and finished performance, and who stormed and loved his way into the hearts of the audience. Good also were Oily Frey (Patty Dutcher) a discharged stenographer who proceeded to "make hay while the sun shines"; Count Von Talheim (Robin Batcheller) an elderly playboy whose purpose in life was the fair sex; Jackson (Walter Pick) an office employee who carried a bank's history on his cuffs; Baron Frank Von Ulrich (Duane McKynne), who as Mr. Rothe's younger brother basked in his glory and carried on the romantic side of the family's life; and Crapple (Leoster Bacharach), who in a small part did well.

The action takes place in Vienna and Paris and the severity of the banking business is interspersed with the romance and intrigue of the two picturesque cities. This is one of the best plays the Maverick has done this year and a trip up there this week is highly recommended. The presentation will continue through Sunday evening, with curtain at 8.45.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman will serve on a jury next week. He has been called for duty on Wednesday night to help decide what happened on "The Night of January 16th", the offering of the current season to be presented at the New Barn Theatre by The Group Players. The play is the popular and well known murder mystery in which members of the audience are drafted to sit in the jury box on the stage and then to decide on a verdict. The play enjoyed a long and successful run in New York and is sure to please local audiences. Ernestine Minicelli, the director of the Group Players, is, at present, in New York city arranging for a special cast to come here for the show next week.

The play being presented at the New Barn Theatre this week is "Accent on Youth", a comedy drama with the following cast:

Linda Brown...Elizabeth Charney
Steven Gaye...Edward Gilpin
Genevieve Lang...Marion Gardner
Florence...Henry Lascoe
Frank Galloway...Glen Carroll
Dickie Reynolds...Alix Kapool

It's the story of Linda Brown, a type of court in Egypt, will continue under the plan already discussed with foreign diplomats.

The Anglo-Egyptian treaty, after many years of political bickering and futile negotiations, has arisen chiefly as a British desire to pacify at least one part of a troubled world.

Italian aggression in Africa, Arab unrest in Palestine, Germany's occupation of the Rhineland and other disturbing factors speeded the agreement.

young and pretty secretary who, for three years, has been very much in love with her playwright employer, Steven Gaye, the 51 years old playwright, is unaware of his secretary's feelings. One day he announces that he is going to give up writing and go to Finland. He discharges her with his sincere thanks for her three years faithful service. As she is about to leave she suddenly confronts him and expresses her ardent love for him. He is flummoxed around for words to say when he suddenly pushes her back to her desk announcing that she had unknowingly uncovered a plot for a new play. That was it—she would make love to him. He casts her in his new play and she becomes a star. During the five months she plays in his show he slowly succumbs to her youthful exuberance. They plan to be married. However, during the many nights of the show she is ardently loved by her leading man, Dickie Reynolds, and she is quite strongly drawn to him. Unable to stand it any longer Dickie confesses his great love for Linda to Steven Gaye. Steven ponders the situation and remembering the great difference in his and Linda's age, encourages the boy and arranges for a meeting between him and Linda, and she, unable to resist his amorous advances goes away with him and they are married.

Steven Gaye becomes resigned to his fate and for a year lives quietly at home with his faithful butler, Flogeidell. Then, just one year later, Linda returns and sobbingly relates her unfortunate married life with the younger man. She has always loved Steven and always will.

Edward Gilpin played the part of Steven Gaye convincingly and carried himself as a 51 year old gentleman of leisure would. Top honors, however, must be given to Elizabeth Charney for her charming portrayal of Linda Brown. Henry Lascoe as Flogeidell, the butler, did very well. Lesser parts were played by Marion Gardner, Glen Carroll and Alix Kapool.

"Accent on Youth" will continue through Sunday night and should please audiences who enjoy comedy drama.

New York Painters' Strike Spreads

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The strike of 12,000 painters in three boroughs of New York city has spread to other parts of the country. Louis Weinstein, secretary and treasurer of the local council of the Painters' Union, said today.

Weinstein made public a telegram from L. P. Lindelof, international vice president of the union at Lafayette, Ind., saying painters in parts of Westchester county, N. Y., Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Long Island, as well as in Milwaukee and Indianapolis, Ind., had quit their jobs in sympathy with the New York painters. These walkouts, the telegram said, were only on jobs being done by New York contractors.

Weinstein said a large number of independent contractors not affiliated with the Association of Master Painters are eager to sign agreements with the union, but indicated the signing of agreements would not be started until Monday. He said 7,000 men would be on the picket lines today.

The strike, which affects painters in Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond, is based principally on a demand that 50 per cent of all painters be hired through the district council. In addition, the union hopes to eliminate the "kickback racket" which, Weinstein said, "has cost our members millions of dollars in the past ten years."

He said that, although painters received $9 for a 7-hour day, they were forced to give back part of the wages to their employers each week, or lose their jobs.

Alexander Brook Canvases on Show

Paintings by Alexander Brook, prominent American artist, compose this week's one-man show at the Sawkill Gallery in Woodstock. Though no longer a Woodstocker, Mr. Brook was identified for a number of years with this community and its activities. As this season's only non-resident exhibitor, Alexander Brook is a very welcome guest artist.

Brook studied at the Art Student's League. He has won an impressive number of awards and is represented in most of the important museums and private collections in this country. Unfortunately his best work is too large to permit exhibiting in the Sawkill Gallery which limits itself to the showing of small canvases.

The complete list of works is as follows: "Reading," "End of the Street," "Fall," "House on a Hill," "Blossom Owen," "Hilltop," "Landscape," "Staten Island Ferry," "Apple Orchard," "The Latin," "White Shawl," "Red, White and Blue," "The Model," "Horse," "Model at Rest," "Early Fall," "Strawberries and Cream."

Last Art Show at Woodstock Gallery

The third and last show of the season at the Woodstock Art Gallery is perhaps the most interesting of the three.

Eugene Spelcher exhibits for the first time this summer. His painting, "Head of Red Moore," though a small one, stands out on the north wall of the gallery as one of the best in the show. A modest little painting, it lacks none of the characteristic technique of his most ambitious portrait, "The Cliffs," by Henry Mattson, is reminiscent of last year's shows, with the familiar greens and blues and the effect of dreamy unreality that characterizes his work. He also is exhibiting for the first time this season. The painting "Street Scene," by George Franklin, is somewhat disappointing when compared with his work in previous shows. The only nude in the show is "Mary Ann," by Gustave Schrader. It is the best of the three paintings shown during the season by this artist, who is one of the group of promising younger painters in Woodstock.

Emmett Edwards, another of this group, exhibits two of his interesting abstract water colors, "Composition" and "Lower Manhattan." A "Still Life" by Frank London is interesting but monotonous, similar to his past contributions to the gallery shows. Paul Rohland exhibits a "Landscape." Visitors at the gallery have become so accustomed to his flower pictures that it is with pleased surprise that they view this change of subject. "Fruity," by Peggy Dodds, is a charmingly real portrait of a little old lady, nodding brightly under a jolly little hat and fondly handling her gay parasol. "Cynthia Ann" is an excellent portrait of Christine Martin, a petulant, slightly arrogant but attractive little girl. "Duality of Self" by Paul Gray is the best of his three paintings seen this summer. It is an imaginary subject, vividly put over. Soos Melik has departed from his art of portraiture to paint an attractive landscape, "October, Kingston, N. Y." In gives a vivid sense of reality without being merely photographically accurate. In the print room are two very competent portraits of his, "Ralph Foreyth, Esq." and

"Hon. Charles Evans Hughes." Other very good canvases are "Interior of My Farm Studio" by Dorothy Varian, "New England Landscape," an unusually good landscape, by Carl Eric Lindin; "African Violets" by Elizabeth Baker; "Moon Over Ruins," a very Mattson-like landscape by Karl Fortress; a delicately beautiful "Landscape" by Austin Mecklem; four nudes by Walter Sarff in the print room; "Portrait" by Louise Roome, and a very fine lithograph, "Nude," by John McClellan.

Of the sculpture the two outstanding works are "Beatrice" by Alfeco, a graceful and lovely portrait of his wife; and "African Walnuts" by Hannah Small. The complete list of works in alphabetical order is as follows. Alicia Atkinson, "Trees," "Boston Ruins," John Banke, "Mountains in Catskills," Beniah Bettersworth, "Tiger Lilies," Elizabeth Baker, "African Violets," Anna B. Carolan, "Still Life," Aileen Cramer, "Posies," "Memories," Florence B. Cramer, "Tomorrow," "Zinnias," Zaydee DeJonge, "A Studio Miscellany," Peggy Dodds, "Fruity," Eleanor Edwards, "Kitchen Interior," "Farm Landscape," Emmett Edwards, "Composition" and "Lower Manhattan," Alfeco Faggi, "Beatrice," Paul Fiene, "Deer," "Norbert Herman," Karl Fortress, "Moon Over Ruins," George Franklin, "Street Scene," Boyer Gonzales, Jr., "Hildebrand Hill," Paul Gray, "Duality of Self," Neil McD. Ives, "Landscape," Laura T. Horne, "Three Left," Hermon Kleinert, "Approaching Storm," Carl Eric Lindin, "New England Landscape," Frank London, "Still Life," Natalie Lovell, "Willows," "Village Street," Henry Mattson, "The Cliffs," Christine Martin, "Cynthia Ann," John McClellan, "Nude," Eugene McEvoy, "Iris," Myrtle McEvoy, "Landscape," Mary McQuaid, "Gloucester Mist," Austin Mecklem, "Landscape," Soos Melik, "Ralph Foreyth," "October," Hermann Oxhandler, "Mill Hands," Orville Peets, "Shells," Louise Roome, "Portrait," "Southern France," Jane Rogers, "Eddyville, N. Y.," "Quarry, East Kingston," Walter Sarff, "Storm," "Seated Nude," "Standing Nude," "Reclining Nude," "Torso in Blue," Gustave Schrader, "Mary Ann," Hannah Small, "African Walnut," Eugene Spelcher, "Head of Red Moore," Dorothy Varian, "Interior of My Farm Studio," Carl Walters, "Saturday Morning," "Grove."

"Feather Raid" at Legion Banquet

Baltimore, Aug. 28 (AP)—Woody Hockaday, of Wichita, Kas., got himself a two-bushel bag of feathers, an Indian headdress, and a pair of worsted shorts—and turned the Maryland American Legion's convention banquet into a near-riot last night.

Hockaday, self-styled peace propagandist, bounded into the banquet hall, scattering white—and wet—feathers indiscriminately over the diners. Their hair and ice cream began to take on a faintly poultryish appearance.

Frank E. Samuel of Indianapolis, National League adjutant, took a fearful square in the face. Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, president of St. John's College, and former prohibition administrator, fared almost as badly.

Then a grey-haired Legionnaire broke a chair around the feather man's ears. Police swept him away. Hockaday escaped from a Washington hospital where he had been confined for observation. Previously he staged a "feather raid" at the War Department.

Teachers to Boycott Hearst Newspapers

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Jerome Davis, president of the American Federation of Teachers, said today the federation had adopted a "strong resolution" concerning William Randolph Hearst.

The resolution, Dr. Davis said, provided that the federation form a central and local committees "to organize a boycott against Hearst newspapers and all other agencies of communication under his control," and to oppose candidates "whose principles and programs are those of Hearst."

The resolution was adopted August 21 at the federation's national convention in Philadelphia. Dr. Davis, who is an associate professor at the Yale Divinity School, said the federation represented approximately 20,000 public school and college teachers throughout the nation.

Hearst was characterized in the resolution as the country's "outstanding jingoist," a "constant enemy of academic freedom" and the "chief proponent of fascism" in the United States.

Federal Land Bank Looms in Ulster

In Ulster county, 627 loans were granted for a total of $1,827,000 by the Federal Land Bank and the Land Bank Commissioner, from May 1, 1933, through June 30, 1936, according to information received by George H. Combs, Jr., state director of the National Emergency Council for New York.

Of loans made in Ulster county, a total of 258 for $883,000 were by the Federal Land Bank and 369 totaling $944,000 by the Land Bank Commissioner.

Through the agency of the Farm Credit Administration in New York state, a total of $39,620,418 has been loaned during the period. These loans included 5,610 of the Federal Land Bank for $15,114,000; 6,692 Land Bank Commissioner loans in the amount of $12,595,000; 11,207 production credit associations for a total of $11,431,410; 2,857 emergency crop loans amounting to $268,165; and 399 drought relief loans for $48,822.

In addition to refinancing of loans through the Farm Credit Administration, the farmers in New York state were benefited also by a reduction of mortgage principal which amounted to $2,046,508. Further savings that have resulted from lowered interest rates are estimated at $441,000 annually.

In the period from May 1, 1933, through June 30, 1936, 745,874 mortgage loans totaling $2,058,156, $26 were made, and $1,331,372,403 was advanced in loans to cooperatives, while $318,878,022 was loaned to cooperatives by the several branches of the Farm Credit Administration in the United States.

Two Coal Dealers Indicted in Sale Of Bootleg Fuel

The first indictments ever to be voted in New York city for alleged bootlegging of stolen anthracite from the Pennsylvania mining district were filed yesterday with Judge William Allen in General Sessions.

Those indicted were Frank L. Nowostaka, 32 years old, president of the Shamokin Coal Lines, of 505 Broome street, and William Slutsky, 50, of the W. & S. Coal Company, at 239 Haverwayer street, Brooklyn. Both were charged with criminally receiving stolen property, as well as with petty larceny, conspiracy and bringing stolen coal across the state line.

The indictments, which are based on the alleged delivery in New York city of about 10 tons of coal between Aug. 5 and 7 last, were voted by the New York County Additional Grand Jury for August at the request of Assistant District Attorney John C. McDermitt. The jury was continued by Judge Allen and will meet on September 9 to continue the inquiry into a $32,000,000 bootleg industry which is said to take an estimated 4,000,000 tons of coal annually from the anthracite fields.

Both Nowostaka and Slutsky are at liberty under bail of $500 each, which was set in Felony Court. It is expected they will be discharged in Felony Court today and rearrested on bench warrants for arraignment in General Sessions.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury yesterday were Andrew Bogash, Jerry Neldig and Sam Swenk, truckmen who have been in the House of Detention as material witnesses. Mr. McDermitt said they would be freed immediately. Of 10 truckmen originally held as material witnesses, only three remain in the House of Detention, in default of bail of $2,000 each. They are Martin Lauer, Joseph Sekora and Allen Guph.

Mr. McDermitt indicated yesterday there would be more indictments soon. It was also learned that there would be a renewal of police raids on the coal trucks which are believed to be pouring bootleg coal into New York city at the rate of 1,000 tons a day.

Two Spaniards Slain
Toulouse, France, Aug. 28 (AP)—Shepherds discovered bodies of two Spaniards in a mountain hut on the Franco-Andorran frontier today, causing investigation of the possibility a political crime had been committed in French territory. Officials believed the Spaniards, seeking to flee to France with a guide from the small republic of Andorra, might have been slain by enemies watching the border.
